

SCIENTISTS PROBE SATURDAY QUAKE

SEEK SOURCE OF
NORTH AMERICA
EARTH TREMOR

Fail to Agree on Cause of
Disturbance—Causes
Excitement

New York, March 2.—Scientists were still unable today to agree upon exactly where originated the subterranean disturbance that caused North America to quake Saturday night from Canada and Florida and even beyond the Mississippi River. Some were of the opinion that the earthquake was provoked by a shifting of sub-strata rock near the Saguenay River's mouth in Quebec. Others thought they had traced it to a region near the Great Lakes.

Still others put the seat of the shivering off the New England coast while some estimated that Southeastern Pennsylvania was the spot of origin.

Professor Douglass W. Johnson, of Columbia University's physiography department, who recently was awarded the $250,000 Cressy Morrison prize for his discovery of a "fault" running 350 miles from the Bay of Fundy toward Massachusetts, supposes that the quaking originated in that area.

Father Tondorf of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., on the other hand, told students of the phenomenon that he believed this quivering to have originated about the Great Lakes.

Dr. Chester Reeds, seismologist of the Museum of Natural History here, judged from his seismograph records that the disturbances were either from the Saguenay River mouth section or else from off the Main coast.

Father J. S. O'Connor, Fordham University, seismologist, was inclined to think that the source of the jarring was around the eastern end of the Great Lakes chain.

Prof. Alan N. Bateman, New York University geologist, thought the quake traceable to a sinking of the New England coast.

Nearly all students of these phenomena were in accord on one thing. That was that it would take considerable time, during which all available records would be studied, to ascertain with any certainty whence came the quake and what happened there to cause it.

Cablegrams said the quivering had been registered in England. All these data must be compiled and compared.

QUAKE GIVES EARTH

PERMANENT WAVE

Cleveland, Ohio, March 2.—A permanent change in the crust of the earth in the northeastern section of the United States, and Canada is one of the results of Saturday night's quake, which sent hundreds of workers in skyscrapers to the streets in fear of their lives. Rev. E. L. Odenbach, observer at John Carroll University, announced today.

Father Odenbach said the center of the quake had not yet been determined, but he believed it to have been somewhere in the lower St. Lawrence Valley or in Northern Maine or New Hampshire.

Investigation today disclosed that not one penny's worth of property damage resulted in Cleveland.

ed, the scientists said, before anything definite can be learned.

Messages continued today to come into New York from many parts of the affected area, telling of excitement among peoples of different communities.

No small part of the tenement population in this city's lower east side still was fidgety. Incipient riots broke out there with the first shocks Saturday night.

Apprehension was general among many who remembered the manner in which Manhattan has been burrowed from end to end with tunnels and tubes and how its buildings shoot skyward from small bases.

Seismologists and geologists, with few exceptions, gave assurances that study had convinced them and many of their ilk before that the rock that makes Manhattan Island is of such texture and so deeply set into the earth and sea that it is unlikely it ever will be jarred sufficiently to bring its skyscrapers tumbling down.

CENTURY OLD PASTOR

IS STILL MARRYING

Boston, March 2.—Here's a clergyman, 100 years old, who is spry enough to perform such little odd jobs in the ministry as a marriage ceremony.

It is Rev. E. S. Best, a Methodist clergyman, of this city.

His latest wedding service was that of Miss Gladys Catherine MacLeod and Russell Windsor Page.

Just twenty-two years ago the clergyman performed the ceremony which united Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. McLeod, parents of the bride.

HOMAGE IS PAID TO PRESIDENT EBERT AT BIER

Bulk Of Nation Mourns Fallen Leader—Successor Is Question.

Berlin, March 2.—While the Nationalist press continued today to throw mud on the record of the late president Ebert whom the reactionaries blame for the fall of the empire the bulk of the German nation participated in nationwide mourning for the dead leader.

The Wilhelmstrasse was thronged all day long with thousands who came to pay homage to the former saddle maker, who became Germany's first president. Through the silk curtains behind the great windows they could see the flickering candles at his bier.

Two reichswahr soldiers stood at rigid attention, under the huge black-draped chandeliers in the entrance of the palace.

Diagonally across from the place the stars and stripes fluttered at half mast over the American embassy, the first of foreign legations to half mast its colors Saturday in token of sympathy.

The official program of mourning includes a memorial ceremony at the presidential palace Wednesday afternoon, where Chancellor Luther will eulogize the leadership of the president. Then the solemn cortege will pass down Unter den Linden, through the Brandenburg gate to the reichstag where the nation will officially bid farewell to Ebert.

The body will be taken Wednesday evening to Heidelberg, where the funeral will be held Thursday morning.

Meanwhile a hot controversy over Ebert's successor was in full swing. The most frequently mentioned candidate seems to be former Chancellor Marx, who can carry the votes of all the middle parties—centrists, social Democrats, Democrats—and probably many other parties.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, hero of the transatlantic flight of the ZR-3, now the LOS ANGELES, whose prospects as a presidential choice were first revealed by International News Service in November, is prominently mentioned as the only man remote from party strife. However, his candidacy seems most doubtful because he still has big plans for Zeppelin development, including a flight over the North pole.

COACHES DERAILED

PASSENGERS SAFE

Oil City, Pa., March 2.—Two sleeping coaches of train 904 southbound Buffalo-Pittsburgh Express, were derailed this morning south of Red Bank on the Allegheny division of the Pennsylvania Railroad. No person was injured it was stated at division offices here and the accident was due to a broken rail. Passengers were transferred to a relief train and continued on their way to Pittsburgh.

TWENTY EIGHTH

TRAFFIC FATALITY

Cleveland, O., March 2.—Cleveland's twenty-eighth auto fatality of 1925 was recorded today with the death of Mrs. Julia Artbauer, who was fatally injured when another automobile crashed into the machine in which she was riding with her son.

The accident was attributed to slippery streets.

MITCHELL DENIES

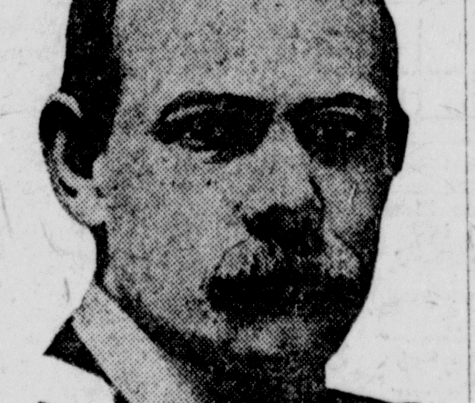

VIOLATING ORDER

Washington, March 2.—Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the air service of the army, flatly denied in a letter to the house aircraft committee today that he violated orders of President Coolidge and the war department in writing articles on aircraft for a weekly magazine.

Secretary of War Weeks told the committee Saturday that Mitchell had violated orders by not submitting the article to his superior officers for approval.

New York, March 2.—Gutzon Borglum, noted sculptor, wanted in Georgia on a malicious mischief charge, began here today, what he characterized as a fight to complete the Stone Mountain memorial to the confederacy despite "small minded enemies."

He arrived here without baggage from Greensboro, N. C. where he was arrested for the Georgia authorities and where he gave bail.

The sculptor vowed he "would remain in jail for the rest of my life," rather than be denied a chance to complete his dream of nine years.

"Certainly, I may be guilty, but only technically," he said of the charges that led to his arrest. "I destroyed my inaccurate working model for the greatest piece of sculpture in the world's history because I believe in the alienable right of an artist to his own creation."

"Let my enemies, who think a local stone cutter or a shoemaker or a journeyman printer can do the work of a sculptor, go as far as they like. I am ready for the fight."

"Why, they're trying to crucify me. I don't mind that so much. But they're trying to crucify art and ruin the greatest expression of a people's faith ever put into permanent form."

"They fired me a fortnight after I served notice on them. I intended to ask an accounting of their stewardship of the Stone Mountain funds."

"According to their own figures they were spending almost as much, dollar for dollar for their office overhead as my boys and I were spending out on the mountainside. I wanted to know 'how come.' It's been a life-long habit with me to want to know 'how come.'"

"Apparently they did not dare answer."

GOVERNMENT EXPENSES OF OHIO TO SET NEW HIGH RECORD NEXT 2 YEARS

Columbus, O., March 2.—Expenditures of Ohio's state government are expected to aggregate $76,820,000—a new high record—during the two years beginning July first, next.

Expenditures authorized in the big general appropriation bill for the biennium starting next July, and which is scheduled to be introduced in the house this evening, total $65,320,000 or approximately $320,000 more than the estimated receipts by the state during the coming two years.

It was pointed out however, that revenues during the next biennium in the form of gasoline tax and auto license fees, are expected to aggregate about $11,500,000, all to be spent for highway maintenance, thus boosting the state's aggregate expenditure for the next two fiscal years to approximately $76,820,000.

Columbus, O., March 2.—With introduction today of the general appropriation bill, the Ohio legislature will swing into the final lap of its biennial session.

Only two more full weeks of work, another part week and a days final cleanup are ahead, if the plans of legislative leaders are followed.

Strenuous sessions are expected from now on in completing the legislative program. Two sessions a day may be the rule, if they are found necessary in order to complete the schedule in the time assigned. Leaders are determined to wind up the session before the end of this month.

The appropriation bill providing for approximately $72,000,000 in expenditures of state funds, will be completed today for introduction when the house convenes at 5 o'clock this afternoon, it was predicted.

Members of the house finance committee worked all day Sunday and Sunday night in getting the bill in shape for introduction. Requests for appropriations were pared to the bone, it is understood, so as to keep the authorized expenditures within the anticipated income.

The coming week is expected to witness a continuance of the fight between the senate and house over the gas tax bill. This measure amended in many of its most important provisions after it was passed in the house is expected to come up in the senate for final passage either Tuesday or Wednesday, with every prospect of a protracted struggle on the floor before final action is taken.

The bill as amended, provides for a 50 per cent cut in auto tag fees by January 1, 1927, and divides the proceeds of the tax on a basis of 45 per cent to the state, 30 per cent to the cities and 25 per cent to the counties.

There is believed to be a possibility that the carrying out of threats to kill "pet" legislation which have been made during the fight over the gas tax bill, may influence the course of legislation in the remaining three weeks of the session, but what measures will be marked for slaughter are problematical.

MILK FOR CHILDREN FROM DISEASED COWS

Canton, O., March 2.—Examination of the herd of twenty-eight Holstein cattle from which the supply of milk for the Fairmount Children's Home is obtained, by Dr. Gille, state bacteriologist, and Dr. G. L. Schneider, Canton veterinarian, reveals that every one of the cows is tubercular and they have been condemned to be killed Tuesday or Wednesday.

The examination brought to light that for a considerable time children of the home have been drinking raw milk that is dangerous and wholly unfit for use.

Woodlawn, Pa., March 2.—Angered because she refused to leave this city, Samuel Kish, 40, today shot his wife, Elizabeth, 38, to death then turned his revolver on his twelve year old daughter as she attempted to escape. As the girl fell, Kish fired a shot into his head.

Kish and the girl were rushed to the Rochester general hospital, at

CROWDS SWARM TO CAPITAL FOR BIG CEREMONY

Carnival Atmosphere Prevails In Spite of Simplicity Plan

Washington, March 2.—The inaugural hosts began to descend on the national capital in earnest today and despite the Coolidge-ian tradition of economy and simplicity, the occasion began to take on the carnival atmosphere that always attends the quadrennial spectacle.

The temporary bleachers from which thousands will view the passage of President Coolidge and Vice President Dawes through Pennsylvania Avenue to the capital were completed today, and workmen put the finishing touches on the small enclosed platform at the White House from which the executive will view the modest inaugural parade.

Hotels are filled already and the lobbies bustling with new senators, new congressmen and their friends and relatives. Indications are however, that there will not be the rush and scramble for hotel accommodations.

PA COOLIDGE READY

Plymouth, Vermont, March 2.—With the old Coolidge family Bible tucked in a corner of his suitcase, Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the president, today started for the inauguration at Washington. It is on this family Bible that the oath of office is to be sworn by President Coolidge.

Pamp and ceremony were missing from the colonel's departure and he took along only his "best" black suit for the March 4 ceremony.

Other inaugurations have been seen. This is due partly to the fact that the capital has erected a half dozen new hotels since four years ago, and partly to the lack of ostentation that has been through around the Coolidge inauguration.

General Dawes, and family arrived in the capital Sunday.

AIRPLANES LAND AT MIAMI MONDAY AFTERNOON EARLY

Miami, Fla., March 2.—The army airplanes of the First Pursuit group, arrived here at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 2.—Seven airplanes of the squadron which hopped off from Macomb, Ga., early today, on the last lap of their journey to Miami, passed over Jacksonville at 10:05 a.m. The other planes were thought to have passed a little farther to the south.

Excellent weather conditions greeted the squadron in Florida and they were expected to reach Miami shortly after noon.

CHILICOTHE GLAD; THEATERS OPENED

Chillicothe, O., March 2.—Chillicothe turned out en masse yesterday to celebrate the reopening of picture theaters and other amusements, following the lifting of the blue law ban by Mayor Minshall.

Many complaints are expected to be filed today as a result of the reopening order.

MILTON WINS

Los Angeles, March 2.—Tommy Milton, Los Angeles, was out ahead today in the battle for 1925 honors on American automobile speedways having won yesterday's postponed Washington's birthday race of 250 miles in the Culver City bowl. His time average 126.89 miles per hour. He drove a Miller special.

BOOTLEGGERS USE RADIO TO ASSIST IN VIOLATING LAW

Washington, March 2.—Radio—the most popular playing of the age—has been diverted to illegitimate uses by bootleggers, smugglers and other criminals in many parts of the United States.

A number of instances came to light today through activities of radio inspectors of the department of commerce, who pledged their co-operation to the department of justice and prohibition unit in investigation looking to possible prosecution.

Among the complaints received by the department of commerce are those from Chicago, New York, Florida and Seattle. A Chicago "wild cat" station is said to have used certain popular songs as a code to warn liquor smugglers on the Great Lakes of the presence of customs agents.

Several Atlantic seaboard stations, using both code and musical programs have furnished information to smugglers of aliens, narcotics and liquor, according to officials.

Inspectors pointed out that such illicit use of radio do not violate the radio laws, if the station is properly licensed, but they expressed the opinion that the department of justice could take action under other statutes.

The department of commerce has launched a campaign to rid the air of broadcasting from unlicensed stations, which, operating on various wave lengths are reputed to be adding considerably to the already congested ether conditions.

On operator has been fined already for "broadcasting with malicious intent." Investigation disclosed that he opened a broadcasting station for the purpose of "interfering with another broadcaster against whom he had a grudge."

A heavy fine and imprisonment is provided for malicious broadcasting with intent to create interference.

Under a $125,000 appropriation which the department of commerce hopes to obtain for a general investigation of radio conditions, field equipment mounted on trucks, will be placed in each of the nine radio districts, to aid in tracing down the illicit broadcast stations.

This investigation also will seek to determine the sources of leaks from power stations and other man-made interference which is causing listeners considerable annoyance.

STONE TAKES OATH OF SUPREME COURT AND DONS HIS ROBES

Washington, March 2.—Harlan Fiske Stone, of New York, resigned today as attorney general and was sworn in at noon as associate justice of the United States Supreme Court. The oath was administered by Chief Justice Taft.

Garbed for the first time in his black judicial robes, Justice Stone took the chair at the extreme left of the chief justice and participated in the day's proceedings, although he had no part in the rendering of decision or opinions.

Solicitor General James M. Beck will act as attorney general until the nomination of Charles Beecher Warren to that post is confirmed by the senate.

CONFIRMATION OF WARREN LAST HOPE OF LEADERS

Administration Program Lost as Final Session Is Opened

Washington, March 2.—The sixty-eighth congress entered its final week today with the legislative program hopelessly deadlocked by factional filibusters.

In the forty eight hours remaining before the compulsory adjournment March fourth, administration leaders hoped merely to finally enact all appropriation bills and to put the finishing touches on the $45,000,000 rivers and harbors bill.

This program was even endangered by demands from several groups in the senate for final action on controversial bills. Leaders planned to meet the situation by having each faction an opportunity to demonstrate its strength. In his classification work such measures as the Crampton prohibition bill, the McFadden banking act, the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill and the Fernald bill for purchasing the Cape Cod ship canal. Indications were that none of the drives would be successful.

The Crampton bill was given the first opportunity in the senate under an agreement to vote today on a motion to begin its immediate consideration. The bill which would create a separate prohibition bureau was bitterly opposed by the liberals in congress, who threatened a prolonged filibuster to prevent its enactment.

Senator Reed of Missouri, led the opposition.

Under the circumstances the president's spokesmen gave up all hope for enactment of farm relief legislation. They found the house and senate warring over the method of providing relief, the house favoring the Dickinson bill and the senate the Capper-Haugen act, which was recommended by the president's agricultural committee. As a result agricultural legislation was doomed.

The administration saw but one silver lining in the legislative clouds. This was a poll of the senate which showed that Charles B. Warren, of Detroit, will be confirmed in his appointment as attorney general, when ever it reaches a vote. The poll indicated that many Democrats led by Senator Overman, Democrat of North Carolina, would join with the administration forces in confirming Warren. The vote, however, will be postponed until the special session of the new senate beginning Thursday.

To partly relieve the legislative jam, administration leaders also decided to postpone action on both the Isle of Pines treaty and the Lausanne treaty until the special session. It was said both treaties would be disposed of in a few days when the senate meets to confirm presidential appointments.

MRS. ANNA FAWCETT DIES SATURDAY

Mrs. Anna Fawcett, 58, wife of J. Sherman Fawcett, died at her home near Paintersville, Saturday night at 11:45 o'clock, following an illness dating since last October.

She is survived by her husband, and the following children, M. E. Fawcett, Dayton; H. T. Fawcett, Dayton; Mrs. Delbur King, Dayton; Mrs. Albert Hagler, Spring Valley; H. J. Fawcett, Xenia and P. D. Fawcett, at home.

The following brothers and sisters, also survive: J. B. Jones, Xenia; Albert Jones, Xenia; D. L. Jones, near Xenia; Frank Jones, near Xenia; and one sister, Mrs. Albert Lewis, near Zoar Church.

Funeral services will be held at the Paintersville, M. P. Church, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in charge of the Rev. Mr. Clark. Interment will be made in Woodland Cemetery, Xenia.

GIVEN SUSPENDED TERMS IN DAYTON

Henry Hamilton, 38, 841 German town Street and James Rhodes, 27, 811 Germantown Street, Dayton, both colored, who accidentally set off a store of dynamite in the Ayremon plat, near Belmont, while stealing gasoline on the night of October 25, 1924, were given suspended sentences of one year by Common Pleas Judge Aldred McCray, Saturday.

Hamilton was sentenced to the Ohio State penitentiary and Rhodes to the Reformatory.

The two men were returning in an auto to Dayton from Xenia, and stopped at a contractor's shed in the plat to get gasoline in a shed to which Rhodes, an employ of the contractor, had a key. The can became ignited and the men escaped. The fire spread to the dynamite and caused several thousand dollars damage to nearby property.

MODERN ROMEO'S LADDER BREAKS

Rome, March 2—A modern Romeo of Trent, met with a severe accident recently because his improvised ladder was not long enough to reach his sweetheart's window and, as a consequence, it slipped, causing him to fall to the street.

It is the custom in that part of the country for a lover to steal an extra kiss or two by climbing to his sweetheart's bedroom window when the rest of the family is asleep. He provides himself with a long pole, fixes it firmly in the ground and "shimmies" up to the balcony, or window.

This Romeo's love will make up for the shortcomings of his ladder, for he declares that as soon as he is well again he will procure a longer ladder and again seek a kiss.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

SAYS UNDERTAKERS CUT DEATH RATE

Chicago, March 2—Pointing out that the death rate, according to population in the United States, is decreasing, Harry G. Samson, of Pittsburgh, president of the National Selected Morticians, in an address here declared a part of the credit for this condition was due the undertakers of the nation.

"Exactly what part the undertakers have played in reducing the na-

Modern scientific methods of caring for the dead certainly have been in a large sense instrumental in preventing the spread of contagious diseases and thus have figured as a factor in cutting down the death rate."

LEADERS OF BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUBS MAKE 1925 PLANS

Leaders of Greene County Boys' and Girls' Clubs, at a meeting in the assembly room of the Court House, Saturday, worked out plans for 1925 with the assistance and advice of Guy Dewey of the Boys' and Girls' Department, Ohio State University.

More attention to the recreational side of club work was decided upon with the possibility of a club camp during the summer.

A county rally day similar to the one held in Dayton last summer will be planned.

Three committees were appointed, one for the county rally day, consisting of Miss Ella Fogg, Miami Township; Mrs. Susan Gaddis, Spring Valley Township, and L. A. Sheffield, Ross Township. The club camp committee is composed of Mrs. C. J. Melinger, Miami Township; Mrs. I. M. Coy, Beaver Creek Township, and Frank Engle, Cedarville Township.

An accommodations committee consisting of E. E. Finney, Cedarville Township; Mrs. J. I. Patterson, Xenia Township; and Mrs. R. B. McVey, Caesars Creek Township, will see that necessary space is provided at the Fair.

Twenty-three leaders were present at the meeting representing ten townships in the county.

SEEK TO SALVAGE $50,000,000 LOOT OF TURKISH FLEET

Athens, March 2.—The recovered treasures of the Laconic the Lutina, and of Tobormory Bay are small when compared with the treasures of gold, silver, money, jewelry and statuary on board sixty-three vessels of war lying on the rocky bottom of Navarino Bay.

Authentic records give the value of these treasures as exceeding $50,000,000.

Their history is well known. In 1827 the Turks, when in possession of Greece, were advised of the determination of the then Allies—England, France and Russia—to put an end to their massacres and pillages, which had been going on for more than two years.

GREECE IS SACKED

Realizing that before long they would have to evacuate the Morea Peninsula the Turkish troops marched through Greece, sacking and looting the Greek towns, collecting a great deal of treasure and eventually embarking on the Turkish fleet with their spoils.

The fleet was under the command of Admiral Ibrahim Pasha who had already been engaged for months in stripping the country bare of treasure—gold, silver, jewels and shipping with intent to transport it to Turkey.

Having embarked the troops, he sailed and eventually reached the Bay of Navarino. Here he took refuge when he learned that the combined fleets of England, France and Russia were after him. In this bay he anchored his vessels, as he thought in safety.

The Battle of Navarino was not expected by the Turks, as no state of war existed and it had a purely chance beginning. It was due to a subordinate officer in command of a fireship opening fire with small arms on a ship's boat.

FLEET IS SUNK
The sudden and unexpected nature of the battle rendered the landing of treasure impossible and it is practically certain that vast hoards of treasure learned that the combined fleets treasure collected throughout so many months went down with the Turkish Egyptian fleet as vessel after vessel to the number of sixty-three, was sunk at her moorings by the cannon of the Allied fleet.

Statements made by the Turkish Admiral, Ibrahim Pasha, show that he had at least $25,000,000 worth of gold and jewels afloat aboard his flagship and that the rest of the fleet contained at least an equal amount. Apart from this there were the individual lootings of officers and men.

Until the present time no organized attempt has been made to recover this vast treasure. It would not have been an easy task, with the old salvage plant; but with the modern salvaging appliances, capable of raising German destroyers, salvaging treasure from the Laconic and many other sunken vessels, the salvaging of the smaller vessels, lying clustered together on the rocky bottom of Navarino Bay, at the depth of from 80 to 180 feet, and in such a sheltered situation is now considered a comparatively easy task and shortly will be undertaken—probably by a British syndicate.

JOSEPH H. SMITH SUCCEUMS SUNDAY

Word of the death of Joseph H. Smith, 75, former Greene Countyman, which occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bert Boston, in Indianapolis, Ind., Sunday, has been received. The remains will be brought to Xenia late Monday.

Mr. Smith resided for a number of years at Poague's Corner, near Xenia and operated the Charles Poague farm. He later moved to New Burlington where he lived several years.

He was a brother of the late County Commissioner Lewis Smith. Surviving are his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Charles Stahl of Springfield, and Mrs. Bert Boston of Indianapolis. Two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Blair of New Burlington and Miss Laura Smith of Indianapolis, the last members of his family also survive.

Mr. Smith made his home with his daughters, Mrs. Stahl and Mrs. Boston, dividing the year with them.

Funeral services will be held at the Methodist Church in Spring Valley, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock with interment in Spring Valley Cemetery.

HERE'S REAL UTOPIA

Rome, March 2.—Salecchio, a mountain village in Piedmont, has suddenly become famous as a village where nobody dies.

No deaths have occurred in the village for the past three years, and in many other respects it resembles a modern Utopia.

The Mayor performs the varied tasks of postman, joiner and bell ringer. Nobody drinks wine, nobody quarrels, and nobody steals, and it is claimed that perfect harmony reigns in the village from one year's end to another.

STOLEN PEARLS ARE RECOVERED; THIEF VISITS T. C. LONG HOME

The burglar who ransacked the home of M. H. Schmidt, King and Union Streets, early Friday evening, stealing a valuable pearl necklace and three watches valued as heirlooms, continued his operations at the home of T. C. Long, East Church Street, later that night escaping with two watches. It was reported at Police Headquarters Saturday.

Entrance was gained as at the first residence by the use of a skeleton key. The family was away from home when the burglar entered and the loss was not discovered until late Saturday morning.

The pearl necklace stolen from the Schmidt home was found by a newsboy Saturday morning in the front yard of the residence of Mrs. Mary Meredith, 231 North King Street, and returned to the owner. The thief had apparently dropped the necklace in his flight. Police Chief M. E. Graham, declared Monday. The necklace was valued at $75.

FISHER ASSUMES DUTIES AS FIREMAN

Herman Fisher who recently appointed to the position of regular fireman at the local department by City Manager S. O. Hale began his new duties Sunday, March 1, when the appointment became effective.

Fisher was selected from a list of three names certified to City Manager Hale by the civil service commission.

He has served for five years as extra fireman but prior to Sunday was employed in Dayton.

The filling of the vacancy caused by the death of Captain Glenn Rayburn, completes the personnel of the department.

In the next twenty-four hours when Benny Leonard, the eminent actor, arrives in town almost coincident with the expected decision of the state athletic commission on the status of Harry Wills and Tom Gibbons.

Leonard will be with us today and it is intimated that overtures will be made looking toward a possible reconsideration of his announced retirement from the manly art of soak 'em in favor of the manly art of hokum.

The commission is expected to proclaim its attitude tomorrow toward the proposal that Gibbons and Wills be matched in a two man elimination affair, with the winner to meet Jack Dempsey. Rumors on this subject are many and varied. One of them is to the effect that official displeasure has been voiced against matching Gibbons and Wills at all.

Another has it that the match is in the well and favorably known bag.

A third alleges that Wills, having filed the first challenge, is at last to get his shot at Dempsey without further preamble.

Commissioner Jim Farley is known to favor this course of action with Muldoon and Brower holding out for a Gibbons-Wills meeting.

As for Benjamin—an actor owes a duty to his public and his visit ostensibly is prompted by a desire to discharge the great obligation. But Billy Gibson's publicity department has been hinting rather broadly of the possibility that Benjamin may step out with Mickey Walker this summer and it is not altogether unlikely that the great man will combine business with pleasure, the latter being represented by the acceptance of the $200,000 contract that is alleged to go with the Walker fight.

However, there may be something odoriferous in Denmark here. Loose conversation about emerging from retirement will cause no depreciation of the general esteem in which Benjamin's act is held. Neither will it injure the success of the moving picture, which I am assured he is soon to make.

We have been led to believe however, that Leonard really means to stake himself to one more shot at the big money. Close friends of the ex-champ have assured me that he will fight Walker this summer and until something develops to the contrary. I have no alternative but to believe what I hear, particularly since the story deals in freight train numbers for the purse.

CAN SPRING LAMB BE FAR BEHIND?

"If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?"

This optimistic saying was changed to "If the lion comes can the lamb be far behind?" by Xenians who sadly noted the steady drop of the temperature Sunday and through succeeding hours.

According to the most ancient weather prophecies, in case March enters blustery and cold, as was the case this year, the end of the month will find the weather fair, or vice versa.

The red mark in Xenia thermometers hovered around zero Monday morning and light skirts of snow increased the wintry atmosphere. A cloudy sky gave promise of further snowfalls and Old Sol even refused to shine to cause the thermometer to rise.

The lion will be given a "cool" reception, and after he is served ices and frozen out, Xenians are looking forward to welcoming the gentle lamb with open arms.

AUTO DAMAGED IN ACCIDENT ON PIKE

A Ford coupe, identified as belonging to Calvin Caudill, station engineer, 623 West Second Street, overturned about three miles out on the Xenia-Springfield Pike late Sunday morning, it was reported at Police Headquarters.

Cause of the accident could not be learned although the driver escaped uninjured. The damaged car was taken to Swigart's Garage for repairs.

CHARGES AGAINST INFIRMARY FARMER TO BE HEARD TUESDAY

Public hearing of charges against W. M. Hughes, farmer at the Greene County Infirmary, before the State Civil Service Commission at the infirmary, will begin Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

F. L. Johnson, counsel for Hughes, estimated that he would call from fifteen to twenty witnesses for the defendant in an attempt to disprove charges against him filed by D. E. Crow, superintendent of the infirmary, alleging "neglect of duty, due to infirmities of old age."

Defense witnesses will consist of several inmates of the infirmary but mainly of farmers located near the infirmary and acquainted with Hughes intimately enough to give testimony concerning his farming ability.

Prosecuting Attorney J. Carl Marshall declared Monday that he expects to call less than ten witnesses including Mr. and Mrs. Crow and several inmates and employees of the infirmary.

Hughes recently obtained a restraining order in Common Pleas Court halting Crow from attempting to remove him until formal charges had been filed with the civil service commission, as he was appointed under civil service.

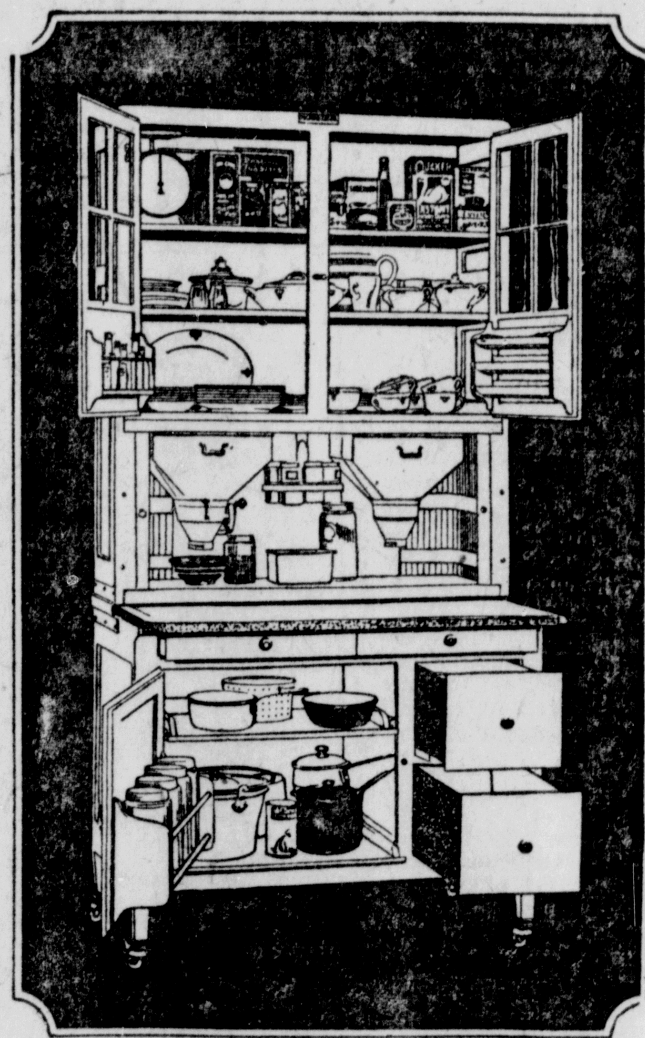

Charges were then filed asking for his removal on the grounds of "his advanced age his physical disability and neglect of duty." Hughes filed an appeal with the commission from his suspension and asked the commission to disapprove the order of removal.

In his injunction suit Hughes alleged Crow attempted to remove him purely for revengeful reasons growing out of testimony delivered by him against Crow at the recent hearing before the state commission in which the old board of county commissioners made an attempt to remove Crow from his position. The superintendent was ultimately absolved.

IMPROVED CONDITIONS ABROAD

THAT there has been great improvement in conditions in Europe there can be little doubt in the minds of even those who are compelled to depend upon news reports and what investigators have to say upon their return from abroad.

This is partly the result of the operation of the Dawes plan but to a great extent to the cumulative result of the slow struggle back toward normal peace-time life which has been in progress ever since the Armistice. The stabilization of the German currency, the return of Swedish, Dutch and Swiss currencies to par with the dollar, the reestablishment of the gold standard in Sweden and evidences of increased savings in some countries are indeed striking measures of the betterment which has taken place.

Improvement outside of Europe has also been great. Australia is enjoying a boom as the result of a high price for a large wool clip and anticipation of a good price for a large wheat crop. Argentina has also profited greatly by advances in wool and the prospects are for an average wheat crop. Despite political unrest, business is reported better in India, chiefly as a result of good crops. In Canada, the high price of wheat has been a partial offset to a poor crop. Practically all countries, except Russia and China, have shared in the gains made.

All will agree that in the long run the United States will profit from a resumption of normal economic life in Europe. Demand for raw materials, such as cotton and copper, is now increasing and there may be some increase in demand for American food products. However, if the Dawes plan is to succeed, Germany must pay reparations by means of the export of manufactured goods. If other countries of Europe are to enjoy genuine prosperity, they, too, must expand their exports of manufactures. The economic existence of Western Europe depends on an increase in these exports.

OUR MISCONCEIVED IDEA

IN A recent address former Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall contrasted conditions in Europe with those prevailing in this country. "The English," he said, "do not make laws until they know that the people want them. I would like to repeal all of our Federal and State laws and re-enact the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule."

Mr. Marshall makes a rather extravagant statement but one not without interest and if his suggestion were to be carried out the resulting situation might not be wholly illogical.

Let us suppose that existing laws were repealed and the Golden Rule enacted as the organic law. From this we should have to proceed in cases of its violation to its interpretation by court decisions. That would be neither more nor less than the development of a common law system as long prevailing in England and still prevailing to an extent in the New England states of this country. Practice under the common law very largely dispenses with statutes, and it is no ideal dream to suppose that many, if not most statutes, could be dispensed with, resulting in a better administration of justice than now obtains in this country. A multitude of decisions bearing upon the applicability of the Golden Rule to numerous cases would in the course of time constitute a guide book to justice and orderly legal processes. This would merely duplicate the history of the common law, from the days of Magna Charta to the present time.

We do not expect to see the Golden Rule enacted as a substitute for existing American law, organic or statutory, but this is not because it might not be to our national advantage. Our lack of faith is rather due to the persistence of law-making in the United States and the prevalent notion that the more laws we have the better off we are.

THE OLD MAN'S CONFESSION

He was indeed a sad old man
Who bared his heart to me;
"I had high dreams when I began
Of what I meant to be,
But I was beaten from my plan
By little hurts," said he.
"I never entered any game,
But what I feared a blow,
The victory I longed to claim
But dreaded failure so;
I would not pay the price for fame
I wished so much to know.

"I could not wholly bring my mind
To work and never stop;
To put my pleasures all behind;
My spirits seemed to drop
And try some easier way to find
To reach the mountain top.

"I winched beneath a little pain,
Rebelling at a fancied wrong;
Selfishly magnified the strain
And made the day seem long,
I hoped by fortune to attain

The glories of the strong.

"And now you find me sitting here
A broken man and sad
A victim of his foolish fear.
One neither good nor bad,
Who flung away from year to year
Each golden chance he had.

"I could have borne the pain, I know,
Too late today I see,
I could have stood to every blow
For all I wished to be;
I could have reached my goal, but,
Oh,
There was no pluck in me!"

SCHOOL MERGER

Columbus, March 2—Merger of the Methodist Episcopal summer school for town and country pastors, heretofore conducted annually at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, with the inter-denominational school maintained by the Ohio Council of Churches, in cooperation with the college agriculture, Ohio State University here, will become effective at the next summer school, June 17 to July 2, it has been announced.

"AL, AND WILLIAM, COME OUT! I WANT TO SEE IF THERE IS A LEADER UNDER THERE."

1905-Twenty Years Ago-1925

No merger of the Reformed and First Presbyterian Churches will be made it was decided at a meeting of the congregation of the Reformed Church last night.

A call has been issued for a special meeting of the city council to be held on Thursday night at which time on consideration will be given the question of granting a franchise to a company for supplying the Xenia citizens with natural gas. Mr. Otto Hornick has again come into possession of the National billiard hall which Mr. Ed. Davidson has been conducting, and is now in charge of it.

The County Commissioners are again considering the proposition to macadamize the Jamestown Pike.

well greased and floured baking powder can, filling the mould only three-fourths full (use two cans if necessary). Put on tight-fitting cover and weight down the can in boiling water which reaches to its lid, letting this water continue to boil around it for three hours. Serve with an ordinary hard sauce. (Note: If you prefer to use one cup of stoned and chopped dates rather than the cupful of raisins or figs, omit the spices, but add one fourth cup of chopped, candied orange peel.)

Breakfast	Stewed Dried Apricots	Cereal	Scrambled Eggs	Coffee	Luncheon	Baked Rice and Cheese	Wholewheat Bread	Celery	Jelly	Dinner	Cornd Beef	Potatoes	Lettuce Salad	Raisin Pie	Coffee	Beef-Bean Casserole	Soak one pint of dried lima beans over night and in the morning drain, cover with fresh boiling water, add a pinch of baking soda, and boil 15 minutes. Now again drain the beans and set them aside to add later to the casserole. Brown one pound of stew beef (either from the round or chuck) cut in cubes, in two table-spoons of bacon fat or beef drippings with two large sliced onions. When the meat pieces are seared on all sides, and the onions a light brown, begin to fill your casserole as follows: Put in a layer of the parboiled beans, followed by a layer of canned tomatoes; season all generously with salt and pepper and repeat these layers till the meat and beans are used (and about two cups of the more solid parts of the canned tomatoes). Sprinkle two table-spoons of flour over all, and add one cup of the liquid from the tomato-can. Bake for two and one-half hours in a slow oven, adding a little boiling water from time to time if it becomes very dry. Serve from the same dish.	Suet Pudding: Mix together one

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

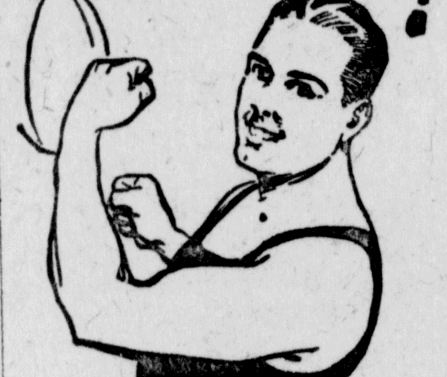

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seizes to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated extract of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Power in the Blood!

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S. S. S. are really amazing!

MAN'S GLORY is his strength—yet how few there are who are really as strong as they should be. The blood thins, gets weaker, blood cells wear out—general weakness and a gradual break-down of the system results.

We know there is one thing that puts power in the blood, and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! We know that as blood cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! But have you ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought of it. So-called skin eruptions—pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema all pack up and go when the tide of blood cells begins to roll in. Blood cells are the fighting giants of Nature. S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood cell builders, blood cleansers and body builders known to us mortals. Here is your opportunity! S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs rheumatism, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down.

Start taking S.S.S. today and get back that power in your blood! S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

PRIDE

I like proud people. Not snobbish people, but those who are proud of their heritage and their chance.

A man wouldn't be much of a man who didn't have pride. Who wasn't proud of his gifts, be they great or small, and who wasn't proud to assert himself.

I like to see the boy who is proud of his personal appearance. It indicates that he is going to be proud of the things he does and of the things he thinks.

The other day I passed through a tiny town—perhaps but a few hundred souls in the community. But right near the railroad station, over a door that looked as though it was not any too long for this world, was a great sign, almost as big as the town, and this is what it said: "Pressing Club!"

Proud people lived in that town anyway. I said to myself that is look as though there was quite some determination in that town—pans pressed or bust! And I will warrant that many a king of finissee or something else comes out of that town.

People with pride about them are not too prone to hurt the feelings of others. They have too much intelligence. In the end, the intelligent man never picks a fight with a bully. People are just beginning to understand President Wilson's famous phrase: "Too proud to fight." Wilson meant that a great people could be too right to lower themselves in a brawl.

And, after all, intelligence wins out

The man who is personally proud takes pride in his home and in his city. He helps to make the world a better place in which to live.

But this pride must be a character pride, not that selfish pride that the Bible says always goes before destruction.

EARTHQUAKE MUST HAVE MISSED XENIA AND GREENE COUNTY

If there was an earthquake Saturday night, and seismograph operators all over the United States state emphatically that there was, Xenians let it get completely away from them.

The disturbance was said to be general over the United States and larger cities reported high buildings rocked, people became excited and police stations were deluged with questions. Scientists report a distinct change in the earth's crust as a result of the quake.

But all of these things must have happened somewhere else. If Mother Earth staged a tremor for the edification of scientists and the alarm of the laymen, she completely forgot about Xenia. Police say a call from the H. H. Conklin residence, West Second Street, that a burglar was attempting an entrance, may have been caused by the quake rattling windows but they admitted that is a far-fetched theory.

Citizens of Dayton say they felt the tremor and a watchman in one building rushed into a police station with a report that a safe had been blown.

A covered watchman, dozing in a chair on the thirteenth floor of one Dayton building said he was frightened when the building shook and his chair was disturbed. A physician on an upper floor in the medical building reported instruments dislodged and a door slammed.

Either because Xenia does not have a skyscraper high enough to feel the effects of the tremor or the quake missed this city altogether, no one here noticed the shock. Although there are no instruments kept at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Professor A. C. Swinnerton, geologist, believes the quake was not noticeable in Greene County.

As there was no evidence of the tremor in Springfield either, Professor Swinnerton believes the upheaval noticed in Dayton might have been the result of a strong imagination, as it unlikely that the quake would be felt in Dayton and not noticeable in Springfield and Xenia.

There is no geologist on the faculty of Wilberforce University and Professor Frazer, geologist at Cedarville College, could not be reached Monday.

The nearest seismograph, the instrument which detects quakes, is located at John Carroll University, Cleveland.

STYLE SHOW TO BE PRESENTED AT JOBE BROS STORE HERE

Whether athletics, motoring, hiking or politics are responsible, statistics prove that the modern woman is larger and physically more attractive than her sister of other generations—and that she comes closer to the Venus de Milo perfection than any other type.

And now, bearing out this fact, comes a fashion style show devoted entirely to the larger woman, which will be held at Jobe Brothers Company, Friday. Living models, carefully trained stylists, will show the larger woman how wonderfully well she can look if she selects her clothes with discrimination and forethought.

This fashion revue has passed through the foremost cities of America and has been acclaimed everywhere for the beauty, smartness, good taste and becomingness of the creations presented. Small wonder, for these creations, Paris-inspired, were designed especially for the larger woman by New York's master-designers in the art of dressing the woman of full figure as she should be dressed—proving that size has nothing to do with smartness and that skillfully slenderizing lines, pounds can appear to disappear.

That grace and dignity of figure, smartness and a more slender silhouette may be easily achieved, is proved by this style show. If you want to know what's going to be worn this summer and how to wear it, don't miss the showings at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

I. B. EDMONSON DIES SUDDENLY SATURDAY

Isaac B. Edmonson, 55, colored, engineer at the Springfield Dairy Products Company, Hill Street, suffered an attack of heart disease while at his work Saturday afternoon and died before a physician could reach him.

Mr. Edmonson had been employed at the Products Company for the past three years. He was engineer at site O. S. and S. O. Home, this city for twenty-one years and left that position four years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Minnie Edmonson, and one daughter, Mrs. Serena Wells, of Boston, Mass.

Funeral services will be held at the home, 115 Home Avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, with interment in Cherry Grove Cemetery.

Friends may call at the home after 6 o'clock, Monday evening.

SAYS HE WATCHED HER

Thomas W. Kover, R. R. 2, Osborn, was sued for divorce by Mrs. Marie Kover, 1500 Springfield Street, Dayton, in Dayton Saturday. The wife charged Kover with leading her near her place of work, "watching every move she made" and causing her to lose her position.

They were married in Xenia, the petition alleges, September 14, 1920 and have one child.

BILLIARD TOURNEY IN SEMI-FINALS

Chicago, March 2—The international 18.2 ball line billiard tournament went into its semi-final stages today with Willie Hoppe, champ, and Jake Schaefer, his most formidable opponent, playing their last matches before, in all probability, they will clash tomorrow.

Schaefer, who so far has furnished the sensations of the tournament will meet H. Suzuki, Jap star, this afternoon, and Hoppe will take on Edouard Horemans, Belgium, tonight.

If both Schaefer and Hoppe win today, Hoppe must defeat Schaefer tomorrow to tie him for the championship and win the playoff to retain his title.

On paper today Schaefer had the best championship possibilities. His grand average for the tournament was 92.40 and his high run the world's record 400 which he rolled off in his match with Erich Hagenlacher. Hoppe's grand average was 31.40 and his high run 197, next to the lowest of any player in the tourney. Horemans has a grand average of 40.40 and a high run of 249.

PARK PLAN WILL BE GIVEN IMPETUS AT MEETING TUESDAY

Plans of the Recreation Association for a city park in the Dodds Addition on North Detroit Street, will be furthered at a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs at the Goody Shoppe, Tuesday night when W. G. Robinson, Jackson, Mich., district representative of the National Recreation Association, will deliver a talk on "Playground Recreation and Park Thoughts."

The association hopes to set a day for a city-wide drive for funds soon after the meeting to equip the park site with a lagoon, gravel walks, rustic bridges, a tennis court, plant trees and purchase a certain amount of playground equipment.

Approximately $10,000 is needed to realize the park dream, according to T. H. Zell, president of the association, and unless that amount is obtained as a result of the drive, park plans may have to be discontinued.

Negotiations for the site can not be made by P. H. Flynn, local shoe manufacturer, who recently donated ten acres of land for the site, unless sufficient funds can be guaranteed to beautify the park, it is said.

Landscape artists who recently viewed the location, expressed enthusiasm over the prospects of a city park, and declared the proposed site was ideal.

A one year program has been arranged in which it is expected to decorate the land in shrubbery, plant a number of trees, build a lagoon, and install bridges and walks.

ACCEPTS CALL

Elyria, March 2—Rev. Charles F. Wiseman, Canton, superintendent of the Canton, district, Ohio Anti-Saloon League, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Second Congregational Church here, effective March 1. He will immediately stage a $100,000 building campaign.

WOMAN IS HELD FOR CRUELTY TO PARENTS

Piqua, March 2—Emma Sinks, 49 is facing a charge of cruelty to her parents after officials discovered she had forced her aged parents, Alex Sinks, 77 and his wife, Louisa, 73, to live in a weather-beaten shack on their farm, near West Milton. The aged couple was refused admittance to the home of the daughter, who said she wanted to live by herself. She is also charged with cruelty to animals, which have been starving on the sixty-acre tract.

Ohio State's win over the lowly Chicago Maroons Saturday night at Columbus marked a seventh consecutive conference win of the season. State had little difficulty in winning out, the final score being 43 to 25. The Olsen-coached five is still at the top of the heap with nine wins and one loss for a 900 per centage. Illinois is Ohio's closest competitor being about two or three games behind. State has but two more games, these being with Indiana next Saturday on the latter team's floor and the following week with Wisconsin at Columbus. The Buckeyes should win both of these games although Indiana will no doubt give them a hard battle. Indiana is in third place while Wisconsin is at the bottom of the heap with but one victory out of eight games.

Manager Hendricks led his squad of Redlegs southward Saturday morning for spring training. Every player on the team is signed up except Hugh Critz. He has not yet come to terms as he rejected the club's contract and is outside the fold. Critz joined the Cincinnati nine last June coming from St. Paul of the A. A. loop. He played good ball and hits among the best. It is thought that he will quit balling and sign up in a day or so.

Central High School basketball team finished a successful coat season last Friday when it defeated Troy High. This marked the locals' ninth win of the season while but three defeats were chalked up against them during the season. Springfield, Urbana and Middletown being the teams to defeat the Big Blue. The locals scored 315 points to their opponents 267 in the dozen games played, outscoring the opposition by forty-eight points. "Pino" Perrine, captain and guard of Central, was high man with forty-six field goals and sixteen fouls giving him a total of 108 points. Rutan was next with 88 points to his credit. These two lads were the big cogs in Central's offense as they scored over half of the team's points. It is hoped that they will keep up their good playing in the tourney at Dayton this week and come through. The writer believes they can beat the U. of D. Preps although they won't have a walk away. In the event they win they will probably meet Middletown, which team beat them once this season. Last season in the tourney the locals beat Norwood of Cincinnati in the first round only to lose in the next to Eaton, a weak team. All the players on this season's team with the exception of Holton have played in a tournament before so they are accustomed to tourney style and should go good.

MAMIE SMITH REVUE PEASES AUDIENCE

Mamie Smith and her syncopated revue, one of the peppiest shows to visit Xenia for some time, entertained a good sized audience at the Opera House Saturday night.

Mamie, herself, in former years, practically the whole show, only appeared on two occasions for songs, once in each act, but her jazzy songs pleased, as is always the case.

The one real feature of the show was the orchestra, which played all of the latest jazz, in such a way as to bring repeated applause from the hearers.

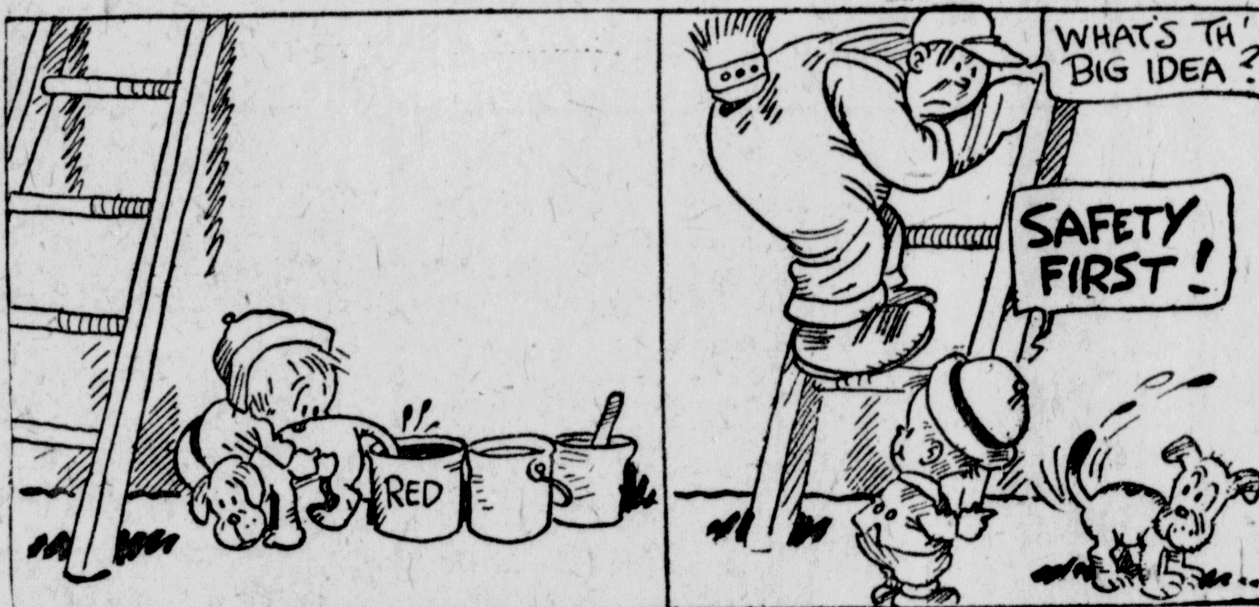

Spectators were treated to something new and different in Mamie's revue this year. The comedians were versatile while the dancing of both the specialists and the chorus was excellent.

PROTEST SENT TO CHINA BY STATE

Pekin, March 2—The United States has sent a strong protest to China for the infringement of American Sovereignty when the American river steamer Chichuen was seized by Chinese authorities in the upper Yangtze recently, it was learned at the American legation here today.

The captain and passengers aboard the Chichuen were arrested and refused permission to leave the ship for several days, according to the protest.

Well, a good woman from Xenia, R. F. D. takes her trusty pen in hand and writes me a few lines of greeting something like this:

THEY DO THE WORK

When e're I want to advertise
And let the people know
That I have got a cow for sale
I'll wisely spend my dough.

When I have anything for sale
Or anything to get,
I let all of Greene County know
Through an ad in The Gazette.

And soon the people come to see
Who've read my printed word,
I sell not only just a cow,
But sell the whole darn herd.

After examining a turtle sent us by a Jamestown farmer we are at a loss to know just what our distinguished city editor, Mr. Higgins, means when he refers to an auto turning turtle.

DON'T LIKE THEM

The early bird may get the worm,
But I will make no haste;
Let others go and get the worm—
They do not suit my taste.

OLD ONE

Charming Jill ran up a bill
For quarts of toilet water,
With credit down
She skipped the town
And soon the sheriff caught her.

This page is getting results for dozens of farmers. Many Greene county farmers are using it. Farmers may phone their ads to 111.

LAY EVANGELISM TO BE SUBJECT OF TALK AT REFORMED CHURCH

The Rev. R. E. Stewart, of Attica, N. Y., will give an address on "Lay Evangelism," at the First Reformed Church, following the covered dish supper to be given by the women of the church, in the parlors, Tuesday evening, March 3, at 6 o'clock.

The social meeting and address will begin a preparatory campaign of seven weeks, leading up to the coming of the Rev. and Mrs. Stewart, April 19 to 25, to conduct a series of meetings in the church.

The Rev. Mr. Stewart will be accompanied by O. S. Auburn of Attica, an elder in the First Baptist Church, that city, of which the Rev. Mr. Stewart is pastor. He will give the laymen's views in a short talk.

The place of the layman in the church will be given special emphasis in the Rev. Mr. Stewart's address. Every member of the church is expected to cancel all other social engagements and come to this service. Each family is asked to bring sandwiches and a covered dish.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

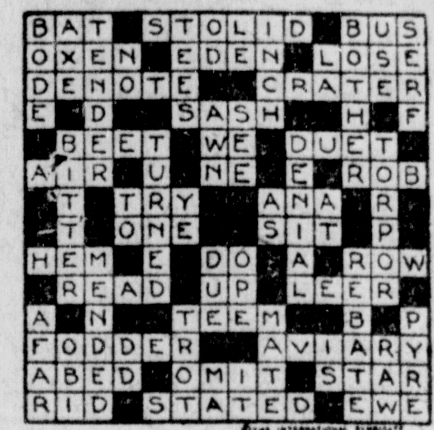

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Witch's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Witch's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Here's Yesterday's Puzzle Solution

COUNTRY HOME IS DESTROYED BY FIRE NEAR NEW JASPER

Fire from unknown origin, totally destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Shirk, south of New Jasper, Sunday morning about 8 o'clock.

The flames were discovered on the second floor of the Shirk home and spread so rapidly that the family had only time to save the household goods and escape.

The fire quickly consumed the entire building, a two-story frame structure and neighbors fought the flames to prevent their spreading to other nearby outbuildings.

The loss on the house, estimated at $2,500, is partly covered by insurance, according to Mr. Shirk. The Shirk home was in the country, too far from town or village, where fire-fighting apparatus could be obtained. Neighbors formed bucket brigades and attempted to save the building.

Kansas City Doctor Invents New Truss

A new discovery which experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well known Hernia specialist, Dr. Andrews, 7878 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double rupture, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of The Gazette and Republican who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today. EX-KAISER'S BRIDE IS TIRED OF DOORN

Doorn, March 2—Princess Hermine, the ex-Kaiser Wilhelm's second wife, is apparently tiring of her idle existence at Doorn, and Wilhelm is doing his best to please her, it is reported.

With this object in view, he recently took her on an expedition to view the former imperial crown jewels, which have reposited in a Dutch bank since the war.

MODISH MITZI—New Fashions For The Old Polka Dot

By Jay V. Jay

The Goofer is plainly mystified. "Well what do you think it looks like?" questions Mitzi. "Sort of a moon, isn't it?" romantically replies her ardent admirer. "No. Polka dots. It looks as though they were going to be good this season. Big ones, little ones and all sort of colors too," Mitzi explains.

"Something new, Mitzi?" blunderingly inquires the Goofer. (Will he ever learn?) Imagine asking a question like that concerning Mitzi's ensemble suit that has a polka dot theme all its own. The dress is of polka dot silk and the bengaline coat has the polka dots applied on to the sleeves.

And here is the Goofer trying to tell all he knows about polka dots, for at last he has recognized them. Polly is astounded to think that her crossbar silk with the polka dot border has called forth so much admiration. Mitzi is pleased to know that her lesson on advanced styles has been so well learned.

Adelaide has come on the scene with a dress of a most unusual polka dot design. The Goofer is delighting in the knowledge that he can now recognize polka dots when he sees them. They do look as though they were forever changing their spots. But that is because the newest ones won't be old-fashioned and insist on a design of their own.

QUEEN CROWNED AT CLOSING NIGHT OF EAGLES' FUN FEST

The Indoor Circus and Fun Fest held under auspices of the Xenia Aerie of Eagles at its new lodge, came to a triumphant close Saturday night when the largest crowd of the week was on hand to see the winner of the popularity contest crowned queen of the circus.

Miss Alma Ammer, with a grand total of 24,670 votes, was an easy winner, and was given a diamond ring. Miss Selma Goodman won the second prize of a diamond ring with a total of 16,478 votes.

The four-tube radio set was won by James Gales, colored, 827 East Market Street.

The circus was well patronized each night of the week, and a nice time was had by the lodge, which will be placed in the building fund, according to the circus committee.

The committee wishes to extend a vote of appreciation to the public for the fine way in which the performances were attended despite the inclemency of the weather and declared the co-operation shown exceeded expectations.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

More than eight and three-quarters millions of women are now "gainfully employed." (1924 figures).

The above figures mean that 21.1 percent of all females in the continental United States over the age of ten are now making, or partially making, their own living. About two and a quarter million are working in manufacturing occupations.

Domestic personal service still leads in the number and percentage of women to whom it gives employment: 2,186,924 women are thus "gainfully employed." This figure is a decreasing one, however, as 2,531,221 women were employed as domestic personal servants in 1910.

More than a million women are in professional service—almost as great a numerical figure as there are men in professional service—and a much greater percentage.

Over 61,000 women hold positions as proprietors, officials, firm members or responsible officers in corporations. It can truly be said that the hand which rocked the cradle is now doing more than its bit to row the industrial boat.

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

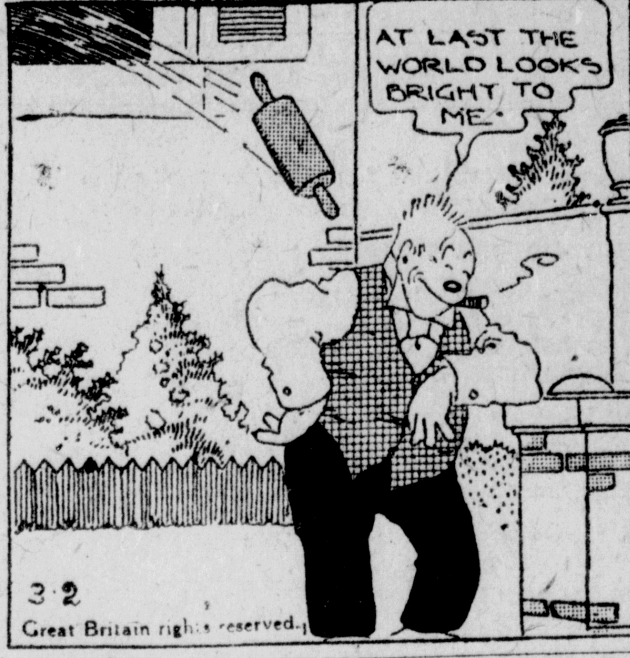

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts to Get rid of Toxic Acid

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. It is not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons. Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

BRINGING UP FATHER

One Wife on Approval

by VIOLET DARE

AUTHOR OF "Luxury of Love," "The Husband Remedy," etc.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CYNTHIA LELAND had a misunderstanding with her husband.

JIM LELAND, due to his mother's interference in their affairs. Jim goes to Honolulu, taking his mother with him. Cynthia accepts the attentions of NOEL GARDNER, and through him buys some stock which Madame Leland has thought worthless, for the purchase of which she had held Cynthia responsible. Cynthia makes several friends outside the set in which her sister-in-law.

LOUELLA and her husband, Stanley, move. Among them is CECILE MALCOLM, who openly avows her affection for Noel.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXVI—ADVICE FROM LOUELLA

THE next morning was beautifully spring-like. Cynthia rose at ten, breakfasted lazily, and curled up on a chaise longue beside an open window, with the morning paper in her hand. She was reading an account of the charity ball of the night before, and smiling over the description of her own costume, when her sister-in-law was announced.

VIOLET DARE

Quite characteristically, Louella came straight to the point.

"Cynthia, you've simply got to mend your ways," she declared, as she dropped into a chair. "I've spoken to you before, but it hasn't done any good. Now I shall write to Jim if you don't behave yourself. Why, the way you acted last night with Noel Gardner was disgusting."

Cynthia sat up very straight, her cheeks blazing.

"It was not!" she cried. "I danced with him a lot, but that was the only thing I did that you could possibly criticize, and as he was just about the only man there who stayed sober all evening, certainly nobody could find anything wrong about that."

"You shouldn't have gone to the party with him in the first place," announced Louella, taking another point of attack. "You should have gone with Stanley and me, or stayed at home."

"You and Stanley didn't ask me to go with you," retorted Cynthia. "And Noel Gardner was perfectly gentlemanly. I couldn't have been better off with my own husband."

"Oh, his actions may have been all right, but think of what people are saying! You know his history—that his wife left him because he went around so much with Cecile Malcolm after she divorced her husband."

"She left him because her people interfered and broke up their marriage," answered Cynthia, and Louella winced before the expression in the girl's eyes. "You know that as well as I do."

"Well, you're just inviting criticism, living here in his apartment and going around with him all the time. I've tried my best to warn you—remember that."

After she had gone Cynthia lay quite still, wondering what Louella meant. What cause would she have to remember that Louella had warned her?

"She acts as if I'd done something perfectly terrible," reflected Cynthia. "How could a man so broad-minded as Jim come from such a narrow-minded family?"

And yet, after all, had Jim been so very broad-minded? Cynthia tried to defend him to herself. Of course, he'd gone off to Honolulu with his mother instead of taking her, and he had acted strangely—but then, he was very fond of his mother, and perhaps he couldn't be blamed for letting her manage him. She did not want to admit what was so evident, that Jim's affection must have waned.

She was still curled up on the chaise longue when Cecile Malcolm strode breezily into the room.

"Hello—what a luxurious thing you are. My dear, will you forgive me for being so nasty the other night when I saw you at dinner? Make allowances—remember that I'm crazy about Noel, too. And to see you with him, when he's neglected me so—"

"Don't say 'too'—I'm not in love with him," protested Cynthia. "We're just good friends."

Cecile chuckled as she rummaged through her pockets for a cigarette. "Yes, I've heard that story before. Let me tell you that no woman can be 'just good friends' with Noel Gardner when she goes around with him as much as you do. And if you think he isn't in love with you, you're not half as sensible as I thought you were. Anyone could tell by the way he looks at you—"

"Oh, Cecile, please! Just because you care for Noel yourself, you misjudge both him and me. I tell you we're just friends. Now be sensible."

"Oh, Cecile, please! Just because you care for Noel yourself, you misjudge both him and me. I tell you we're just friends. Now be sensible."

LOUELLA came straight to the point.

"Oh, have it your own way! Though if he spent half as much time with me as he does with you, I'd walk around town with a huge sign telling people about it. Believe me in the forests the other day, and she said he was ordering orchids for you that made her turn absolutely green with envy."

As the orchids were in a bowl on her dressing table, Cynthia said nothing.

Cecile went at last, after vainly begging Cynthia to dress and go walking with her, and once more Cynthia was left to her own thoughts. She began to wonder if she had made a dreadful mistake in the way she had acted about Jim. Perhaps it would have been better if she had insisted on joining him when she first learned that he was to be away for a long time. She could have gone to him without letting him know that she was coming; once they were together, she felt sure that he would not have sent her back home. And surely he would believe in her.

Noel Gardner phoned to ask her to dine with him, but she refused, feeling that she must be alone. Five minutes later a cablegram arrived. She tore it open eagerly. Word from Jim at last!

"Stay with Louella till my return," she read.

"Stay with Louella, indeed!" cried Cynthia bitterly. "Indeed I shan't! This is the last straw!"

Tomorrow—A Helping Hand.

A. J. RICHARDSON CALLED BY DEATH

After an illness of several years duration, Andrew J. Richardson, died at the home of his son, Homer Richardson, in Paintersville, Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock, on the sixty-ninth anniversary of his birth. Death was the result of locomotor ataxia, from which he had been an invalid for several years.

Mr. Richardson is survived by two sons, Homer of Paintersville and Sherman Richardson of Jamestown. One brother, Noah Richardson of Madison County, also survives.

Mr. Richardson was a resident of Greene County all of his life, and made his home for the last four years with his son, Homer Richardson in Paintersville. He was a member of I. O. O. F. Lodge No. 52, of Xenia.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Methodist Protestant Church in Paintersville, with burial in Jamestown Cemetery.

SCIENTISTS PROBE SATURDAY QUAKE

SEEK SOURCE OF
NORTH AMERICA
EARTH TREMOR

Fail to Agree on Cause of
Disturbance—Causes
Excitement

New York, March 2.—Scientists were still unable today to agree upon exactly where originated the subterranean disturbance that caused North America to quake Saturday night from Canada and Florida and even beyond the Mississippi River. Some were of the opinion that the earthquake was provoked by a shifting of sub-strata rock near the Saguenay River's mouth in Quebec. Others thought they had traced it to a region near the Great Lakes.

Still others put the seat of the shivering off the New England coast while some estimated that Southeastern Pennsylvania was the spot of origin.

Professor Douglas W. Johnson, of Columbia University's physiography department, who recently was awarded the $250 Cressy Morrison prize, for his discovery of a "fault" running 350 miles from the Bay of Fundy toward Massachusetts, supposed that the quaking originated in that area.

Father Tondorf of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., on the other hand, told students of the phenomenon that he believed the quaking to have originated about the Great Lakes.

Dr. Chester Reeds, seismologist of the Museum of Natural History here, judged from his seismograph records that the disturbances were either from the Saguenay River mouth section or else from off the Maine coast.

Father J. S. O'Connor, Fordham University, seismologist, was inclined to think that the source of the jarring was around the eastern end of the Great Lakes chain.

Prof. Alan N. Bateman, New York University geologist, thought the quake traceable to a sinking of the New England coast.

Nearly all students of these phenomena were in accord on one thing. That was that it would take considerable time, during which all available records would be studied, to ascertain with any certainty whence came the quake and what happened there to cause it.

Cablegrams said the quaking had been registered in England. All these data must be compiled and compared.

QUAKE GIVES EARTH PERMANENT WAVE

Cleveland, Ohio, March 2.—A permanent change in the crust of the earth in the northeastern section of the United States and Canada is one of the results of Saturday night's quake, which sent hundreds of workers in skyscrapers to the streets in fear of their lives. Rev. F. L. Odenbach, observer at John Carroll University, announced today.

Father Odenbach said the center of the quake had not yet been determined, but he believed it to have been somewhere in the lower St. Lawrence Valley or in Northern Maine or New Hampshire.

Investigation today discloses that not one penny's worth of property damage resulted in Cleveland.

ed, the scientists said, before any thing definite can be learned.

Messages continued today to come into New York from many parts of the affected area, telling of excitement among peoples of different communities.

No small part of the tenement population in this city's lower east side still was fidgety. Incipient riots broke out there with the first shocks Saturday night.

Apprehension was general among many who remembered the manner in which Manhattan has been burrowed from end to end with tunnels and tubes and how its buildings shoot skyward from small bases.

Seismologists and geologists, with few exceptions, gave assurances that study had convinced them and many of their ilk before them that the rock that makes Manhattan Island is of such texture and so deeply set into the earth and sea that it is unlikely it ever will be jarred sufficiently to bring its skyscrapers tumbling down.

CENTURY OLD PASTOR IS STILL MARRYING

Boston, March 2.—Here's a clergyman 100 years old who is spry enough to perform such little odd jobs in the ministry as a marriage ceremony.

It is Rev. E. S. Best, a Methodist clergyman, of this city.

His latest wedding service was that of Miss Gladys Catherine MacLeod and Russell Windsor Page.

Just twenty-two years ago the clergyman performed the ceremony which united Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. McLeod, parents of the bride.

HOMAGE IS PAID TO PRESIDENT EBERT AT BIER

Bulk Of Nation Mourns Fallen Leader—Successor Is Question.

Berlin, March 2.—While the Nationalist press continued today to throw mud on the record of the late president Ebert whom the reactionaries blame for the fall of the empire the bulk of the German nation participated in nationwide mourning for the dead leader.

The Wilhelmstrasse was thronged all day long with thousands who came to pay homage to the former saddle maker, who became Germany's first president. Through the silk curtains behind the great windows they could see the flickering candles at his bier.

Two reichswehr soldiers stood at rigid attention, under the huge black-draped chandeliers in the entrance of the palace.

Diagonally across from the place the stars and stripes fluttered at half mast over the American embassy, the first of foreign legations to half mast its colors Saturday in token of sympathy.

The official program of mourning includes a memorial ceremony at the presidential palace Wednesday afternoon, where Chancellor Luther will eulogize the leadership of the president. Then the solemn cortege will pass down Unter den Linden, through the Brandenburg gate to the reichstag where the nation will officially bid farewell to Ebert.

The body will be taken Wednesday evening to Heidelberg, where the funeral will be held Thursday morning. Meanwhile a hot controversy over Ebert's successor was in full swing. The most frequently mentioned candidate seems to be former Chancellor Marx, who can carry the votes of all the middle parties—centrists, social Democrats, Democrats—and probably many other parties.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, hero of the transatlantic flight of the ZR-3, now the LOS ANGELES, whose prospects as a presidential choice were first revealed by International News Service in November, is prominently mentioned as the only man remote from party strife. However, his candidacy seems most doubtful because he still has big plans for Zeppelin development, including a flight over the North pole.

COACHES DERAILED PASSENGERS SAFE

Oil City, Pa., March 2.—Two sleeping coaches of train 904 southbound Buffalo-Pittsburgh Express, were derailed this morning south of Red Bank on the Allegheny division of the Pennsylvania Railroad. No person was injured it was stated at division offices here and the accident was due to a broken rail. Passengers were transferred to a relief train and continued on their way to Pittsburgh.

TWENTY EIGHTH TRAFFIC FATALITY

Cleveland, O., March 2.—Cleveland's twenty-eighth auto fatality of 1925 was recorded today with the death of Mrs. Julia Artbauer, who was fatally injured when another automobile crashed into the machine in which she was riding with her son.

The accident was attributed to slippery streets.

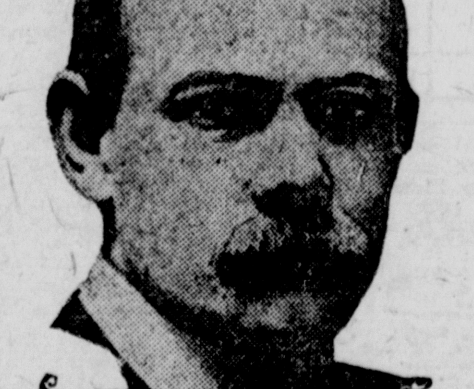

MITCHELL DENIES VIOLATING ORDER

Washington, March 2.—Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the air service of the army, flatly denied in a letter to the house aircraft committee today that he violated orders of President Coolidge and the war department in writing articles on aircraft for a weekly magazine.

Secretary of War Weeks told the committee Saturday that Mitchell had violated orders by not submitting the article to his superior officers for approval.

New York, March 2.—Gutzon Borghum, noted sculptor, wanted in Georgia on a malicious mischief charge, began here today, what he characterized as a fight to complete the Stone Mountain memorial to the confederacy despite "small minded enemies."

He arrived here without baggage from Greensboro, N. C. where he was arrested.

GUTZON BORGHUM

arrested for the Georgia authorities and where he gave bail.

The sculptor vowed he "would remain in jail for the rest of my life," rather than be denied a chance to complete his dream of nine years.

Borghum went into conference with wealthy friends here on the best means for proceeding. He attributed his discharge by the association sponsoring the gigantic sculpture, to interference of provincial minds.

"Certainly, I may be guilty, but only technically," he said of the charges that led to his arrest. "I destroyed my inaccurate working model for the greatest piece of sculpture in the world's history because I believe in the alienable right of an artist to his own creation."

"Let my enemies, who think a local stone cutter or a shoemaker or a journeyman printer can do the work of a sculptor, go as far as they like. I am ready for the fight."

"Why, they're trying to crucify me. I don't mind that so much. But they're trying to crucify art and ruin the greatest expression of a people's faith ever put into permanent form."

"They fired me a fortnight after I served notice on them. I intended to ask an accounting of their stewardship of the Stone Mountain funds."

"According to their own figures they were spending almost as much, dollar for dollar for their office overhead as my boys and I were spending out on the mountainside. I wanted to know 'how come.' It's been a life-long habit with me to want to know 'how come.'"

"Apparently they did not dare answer."

Members of the house finance committee worked all day Sunday and Sunday night in getting the bill in shape for introduction. Requests for appropriations were pared to the bone, it is understood, so as to keep the authorized expenditures within the anticipated income.

The coming week is expected to witness a continuance of the fight between the senate and house over the gas tax bill. This measure amended in many of its most important provisions after it was passed in the house is expected to come up in the senate for final passage either Tuesday or Wednesday, with every prospect of a protracted struggle on the floor before final action is taken.

The bill as amended, provides for a 50 per cent cut in auto tag fees by January 1, 1927, and divides the proceeds of the tax on a basis of 45 per cent to the state, 30 per cent to the cities and 25 per cent to the counties. There is believed to be a possibility that the carrying out of threats to kill "pet" legislation which have been made during the fight over the gas tax bill, may influence the course of legislation in the remaining three weeks of the session, but what measures will be marked for slaughter are problematical.

MILK FOR CHILDREN FROM DISEASED COWS

Canton, O., March 2.—Examination of the herd of twenty-eight Holstein cattle from which the supply of milk for the Fairmount Children's Home is obtained, by Dr. G. L. Schneider, Canton veterinarian, reveals that every one of the cows is tubercular and they have been condemned to be killed Tuesday or Wednesday.

The examination brought to light that for a considerable time children of the home have been drinking raw milk that is dangerous and wholly unfit for use.

AUTOIST CRASHES THROUGH GATES; DIES

Shilby, O., March 2.—With the crossing gates down and the gong sounding against him, Earl Hoffstodt, during a drizzling rain, crashed through the gates and was killed when a Big Four passenger train hurled the machine a distance of 100 feet.

Hoffstodt's body, with every bone broken, was picked up from the wreckage.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 2.—Girls as well as boys students at West Liberty Normal School Sunday evening, worked in a bucket brigade fighting fire that threatened West Liberty, until fire apparatus could make the eleven mile trip from Wheeling.

CROWDS SWARM TO CAPITAL FOR BIG CEREMONY

Carnival Atmosphere Prevails In Spite of Simplicity Plan

Washington, March 2.—The inaugural hosts began to descend on the national capital in earnest today and despite the Coolidgeian tradition of economy and simplicity, the occasion began to take on the carnival atmosphere that always attends the quadrennial spectacle.

The temporary bleachers from which thousands will view the passage of President Coolidge and Vice President Dawes through Pennsylvania Avenue to the capital were completed today, and workmen put the finishing touches on the small enclosed platform at the White House from which the executive will view the modest inaugural parade.

Hotels are filled already and the lobbies bustling with new senators, new congressmen and their friends and relatives. Indications are, however, that there will not be the rush and scramble for hotel accommodations that other inaugurations have seen.

This is due partly to the fact that the capital has erected a half dozen new hotels since four years ago, and partly to the lack of ostentation that has been through around the Coolidge inauguration.

General Dawes, and family arrived in the capital Sunday.

PA COOLIDGE READY

Plymouth, Vermont, March 2.—With the old Coolidge family Bible, tucked in a corner of his suitcase, Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the president, today started for the inauguration at Washington. It is on this family Bible that the oath of office is to be sworn by President Coolidge.

Pamp and ceremony were missing from the colonel's departure and he took along only his "best" black suit for the March 4 ceremony.

AIRPLANES LAND AT MIAMI MONDAY AFTERNOON EARLY

Miami, Fla., March 2.—The army airplanes of the First Pursuit group, arrived here at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 2.—Seven airplanes of the squadron which hopped off from Macon, Ga., early today, on the last lap of their journey to Miami, passed over Jacksonville at 10:05 a.m. The other planes were thought to have passed a little farther to the south.

Excellent weather conditions greeted the squadron in Florida and they were expected to reach Miami shortly after noon.

CHILICOTHE GLAD; THEATERS OPENED

Chillicothe, O., March 2.—Chillicothe turned out en masse yesterday to celebrate the reopening of picture theaters and other amusements, following the lifting of the blue law ban by Mayor Minshall.

Many complaints are expected to be filed today as a result of the reopening order.

MILTON WINS

Los Angeles, March 2.—Tommy Milton, Los Angeles, was out today in the battle for 1925 honors on American automobile speedways having won yesterday's postponed Washington's birthday race of 250 miles in the Culver City bowl. His time average 126.89 miles per hour. He drove a Miller special.

CONFIRMATION OF WARREN LAST HOPE OF LEADERS

Administration Program Lost as Final Session Is Opened

Washington, March 2.—The sixty-eighth congress entered its final week today with the legislative program hopelessly deadlocked by factional filibusters.

In the forty eight hours remaining before the compulsory adjournment March fourth, administration leaders hoped merely to finally enact all appropriation bills and to put the finishing touches on the $13,000,000 rivers and harbors bill.

This program was even endangered by demands from several groups in the senate for final action on controversial bills. Leaders planned to meet the situation by giving each faction an opportunity to demonstrate its strength. In his classification were such measures as the Crampton prohibition bill, the McFadden banking act, the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill and the Fernald bill for purchasing the Cape Cod ship canal. Indications were that none of the drives would be successful.

The Crampton bill was given the first opportunity in the senate under an agreement to vote today on a motion to begin its immediate consideration. The bill which would create a separate prohibition bureau was bitterly opposed by the liberals in congress, who threatened a prolonged filibuster to prevent its enactment.

Senator Reed of Missouri, led the opposition.

Under the circumstances the president's spokesmen gave up all hope for enactment of farm relief legislation. They found the house and senate warring over the method of providing relief, the house favoring the Dickinson bill and the senate the Capper-Haugen act, which was recommended by the president's agricultural committee. As a result agricultural legislation was doomed.

The administration saw but one silver lining in the legislative cloud. This was a poll of the senate which showed that Charles B. Warren, of Detroit, will be confirmed in his appointment as attorney general, whenever it reaches a vote. The poll indicated that many Democrats led by Senator Overman, Democrat of North Carolina, would join with the administration forces in confirming Warren. The vote, however, will be postponed until the special session of the new senate begins Thursday.

To partly relieve the legislative jam, administration leaders also decided to postpone action on both the Isle of Pines treaty and the Lausanne treaty until the special session. It was said both treaties would be disposed of in a few days when the senate meets to confirm presidential appointments.

Several Atlantic seaboard stations, using both code and musical programs have furnished information to smugglers of aliens, narcotics and liquors, according to officials.

Inspectors pointed out that such illicit uses of radio do not violate the radio laws, if the station is properly licensed, but they expressed the opinion that the department of justice could take action under other statutes.

The department of commerce has launched a campaign to rid the air of broadcasting from unlicensed stations, which, operating on various wave lengths are reputed to be adding considerably to the already congested ether conditions.

On operator has been fined already for "broadcasting with malicious intent." Investigation disclosed that he opened a broadcasting station for the purpose of "interfering with a broadcaster against whom he had a grudge." A heavy fine and imprisonment is provided for malicious broadcasting with intent to create interference.

Under a $125,000 appropriation which the department of commerce hopes to obtain for a general investigation of radio conditions, field equipment mounted on trucks, will be placed in each of the nine radio districts, to aid in tracing down the illicit broadcasters.

This investigation also will seek to determine the sources of leaks from power stations and other man-made interference which is causing listeners considerable annoyance.

STONE TAKES OATH OF SUPREME COURT AND DONS HIS ROBES

Washington, March 2.—Harlan Fiske Stone, of New York, resigned today as attorney general and was sworn in at noon as associate justice of the United States Supreme Court. The oath was administered by Chief Justice Taft.

Garbed for the first time in his black judicial robes, Justice Stone took the chair at the extreme left of the chief justice and participated in the day's proceedings, although he had no part in the rendering of decision or opinions.

Solicitor General James M. Beck will act as attorney general until the nomination of Charles Beecher Warren to that post is confirmed by the senate.

Hamilton was sentenced to the Ohio State penitentiary and Rhodes to the Reformatory.

BOOTLEGGERS USE RADIO TO ASSIST IN VIOLATING LAW

Popular Songs Serve As Code Warnings to Rum Runners

Washington, March 2.—Radio—the most popular plaything of the age—has been diverted to illegitimate uses by bootleggers, smugglers and other criminals in many parts of the United States.

A number of instances came to light today through activities of radio inspectors of the department of commerce, who pledged their co-operation to the department of justice and prohibition unit in investigation looking to possible prosecution.

Among the complaints received by the department of commerce are those from Chicago, New York, Florida and Seattle. A Chicago "wild cat" station is said to have used certain popular songs as a code to warn liquor smugglers on the Great Lakes of the presence of customs agents.

Several Atlantic seaboard stations, using both code and musical programs have furnished information to smugglers of aliens, narcotics and liquors, according to officials.

Inspectors pointed out that such illicit uses of radio do not violate the radio laws, if the station is properly licensed, but they expressed the opinion that the department of justice could take action under other statutes.

MODERN ROMEO'S LADDER BREAKS

Rome, March 2—A modern Romeo, of Trent, met with a severe accident recently because his improvised ladder was not long enough to reach his sweetheart's window and, as a consequence, it slipped, causing him to fall to the street.

It is the custom in that part of the country for a lover to steal an extra ladder or two by climbing to his sweetheart's window when the rest of the family is asleep. He provides himself with a long pole, fixes it firmly in the ground and "shinies" up to the balcony, or window.

This Romeo's love will make up for the shortcomings of his ladder, for he declares that as soon as he is well again he will procure a longer ladder and again seek a kiss.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

SAYS UNDERTAKERS CUT DEATH RATE

Chicago, March 2—Pointing out that the death rate, according to population in the United States, is decreasing, Harry G. Samson, of Pittsburgh, president of the National Selected Morticians, in an address here declared a part of the credit for this condition was due the undertakers of the nation.

"Exactly what part the undertakers have played in reducing the nation's death rate," said Mr. Samson, "it is impossible to estimate, but without doubt the part has been considerable. Modern scientific methods of caring for the dead certainly have been in a large sense instrumental in preventing the spread of contagious diseases and thus have figured as a factor in cutting down the death rate."

LEADERS OF BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUBS MAKE 1925 PLANS

Leaders of Greene County Boys' and Girls' Clubs, at a meeting in the assembly room of the Court House, Saturday, worked out plans for 1925 with the assistance and advice of Guy Dowdy of the Boys' and Girls' Department, Ohio State University.

More attention to the recreational side of club work was decided upon with the possibility of a club camp during the summer.

A county rally day similar to the one held in Dayton last summer will be planned. Three committees were appointed, one for the county rally day, consisting of Miss Ella Fogg, Miami Township; Mrs. Susan Gaddis, Sprung Valley Township, and L. A. Sheffield, Ross Township. The club camp committee is composed of Mrs. C. J. Melinger, Miami Township; Mrs. I. M. Coy, Beaver Creek Township, and Frank Engle, Cedarville Township.

An accommodations committee consisting of E. E. Finney, Cedarville Township; Mrs. J. I. Patterson, Xenia Township; and Mrs. R. B. McElroy, Caesars Creek Township, will see that necessary space is provided at the Fair.

Twenty-three leaders were present at the meeting representing ten townships in the county.

SEEK TO SALVAGE $50,000,000 LOOT OF TURKISH FLEET

Athens, March 2.—The recovered treasures of the Laurotic and the Laurotic, of Tobormory Bay are small when compared with the treasures of gold, silver, money, jewelry and statuary on board sixty-three vessels of war lying on the rocky bottom of Navarino Bay.

Authentic records give the value of these treasures as exceeding $50,000,000.

Their history is well known. In 1827 the Turks, when in possession of Greece, were advised of the determination of the then Allies—England, France and Russia—to put an end to their massacres and pillages, which had been going on for more than two years.

GREECE IS SACKED Realizing that before long they would have to evacuate the Morea Peninsula the Turkish troops marched through Greece, sacking and looting the Greek towns, collecting a great deal of treasure and eventually embarking on the Turkish fleet with their spoils.

This fleet was under the command of Admiral Ibrahim Pasha who had already been engaged for months in stripping the country bare of treasure—gold, silver, jewels and shipping with intent to transport it to Turkey.

Having embarked the troops, he sailed and eventually reached the Bay of Navarino. Here he took refuge when he learned that the combined fleets of England, France and Russia were after him. In this bay he anchored his vessels, as he thought in safety.

The Battle of Navarino was not expected by the Turks, as no state of war existed and it had a purely chance beginning. It was due to a subordinate officer in command of a fresh opening fire with small arms on a ship's boat.

FLEET IS SUNK

The sudden and unexpected nature of the battle rendered the landing of treasure impossible and it is practically certain that vast hoards of treasure collected throughout so many months went down with the Turkish fleet as vessel after vessel sank at her moorings by the cannon of the Allied fleet.

Statements made by the Turkish Admiral, Ibrahim Pasha, show that he had at least $25,000,000 worth of gold and jewels aboard his flagship and that the rest of the fleet contained at least an equal amount. Apart from this there were the individual lootings of officers and men.

Until the present time no organized attempt has been made to recover this vast treasure. It would not have been an easy task, with the old sailing ships, but with the modern salvage appliances, capable of raising German destroyers, saving treasure from the Laurotic and many other sunken vessels, the salvaging of the smaller vessels, lying clustered together on the rocky bottom of Navarino Bay, at the depth of from 80 to 180 feet, and in such a sheltered situation is now considered a comparatively easy task and shortly will be undertaken—probably by a British syndicate.

JOSEPH H. SMITH SUCCUMBS SUNDAY

Word of the death of Joseph H. Smith, 75, former Greene Countyman, which occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bert Boston, in Indianapolis, Ind., Sunday, has been received. The remains will be brought to Xenia late Monday.

Mr. Smith resided for a number of years at Poague's Corner, near Xenia and operated the Charles Poague farm. He later moved to New Burlington where he lived several years.

He was a brother of the late County Commissioner Lewis Smith. Surviving are his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Charles Stahl of Springfield, and Mrs. Bert Boston of Indianapolis. Two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Blair of New Burlington and Miss Laura Smith of Indianapolis, the last members of his family also survive.

Mr. Smith made his home with his daughters, Mrs. Stahl and Mrs. Boston, dividing the year with them.

Funeral services will be held at the Methodist Church in Spring Valley, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock with interment in Spring Valley Cemetery.

HERE'S REAL UTOPIA

Rome, March 2.—Salecchio, a mountain village in Piedmont, has suddenly become famous as a village where nobody dies.

No deaths have occurred in the village for the past three years, and in many other respects it resembles a modern Utopia.

The Mayor performs the varied tasks of postman, joiner and bell ringer. Nobody drinks wine, nobody quarrels, and nobody steals, and it is claimed that perfect harmony reigns in the village from one year's end to another.

STOLEN PEARLS ARE RECOVERED; THIEF VISITS T. C. LONG HOME

The burglar who ransacked the home of M. H. Schmidt, King and Union Streets, early Friday evening, stealing a valuable pearl necklace and three watches valued as heirlooms, continued his operations at the home of T. C. Long, East Church Street, later that night escaping with two watches. It was reported at Police Headquarters Saturday.

Entrance was gained at the first residence by the use of a skeleton key. The family was away from home when the burglar entered and the loss was not discovered until late Saturday morning.

The pearl necklace stolen from the Schmidt home was found by a news boy Saturday morning in the front yard of the residence of Mrs. Mary Meredith, 231 North King Street, and returned to the owner. The thief had apparently dropped the necklace in his flight, Police Chief M. E. Graham, declared Monday. The necklace was valued at $75.

FISHER ASSUMES DUTIES AS FIREMAN

Herman Fisher who recently appointed to the position of regular fireman at the local department by City Manager S. O. Hale began his new duties Sunday, March 1, when the appointment became effective.

Fisher was selected from a list of three names certified to City Manager Hale by the civil service commission.

He has served for five years as extra fireman but prior to Sunday was employed in Dayton.

The filling of the vacancy caused by the death of Captain Glenn Rayburn, completes the personnel of the department.

CAN SPRING LAMB BE FAR BEHIND?

"If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?"

This optimistic saying was changed to "If the lion comes can the lamb be far behind?" by Xenians who sadly noted the steady drop of the thermometer Sunday and through succeeding hours.

According to the most ancient weather prophecies, in case March enters blustery and cold, as was the case this year, the end of the month will find the weather fair, or vice versa.

The red mark in Xenia thermometers hovered around zero Monday morning and light skiffs of snow increased the wintry atmosphere. A cloudy sky gave promise of further snowfalls and Old Sol even refused to shine to cause the thermometer to rise.

The lion will be given a "cool" reception, and after he is served leas and frozen out, Xenians are looking forward to welcoming the gentle lamb with open arms.

AUTO DAMAGED IN ACCIDENT ON PIKE

A Ford coupe, identified as belonging to Calvin Caudill, station engineer, 623 West Second Street, overturned about three miles out on the Xenia-Springfield Pike late Sunday morning. It was reported at Police Headquarters.

Cause of the accident could not be learned although the driver escaped uninjured. The damaged car was taken to Swigart's Garage for repairs.

CHARGES AGAINST INFIRMARY FARMER TO BE HEARD TUESDAY

Public hearing of charges against W. M. Hughes, farmer at the Greene County Infirmary, before the State Civil Service Commission at the infirmary, will begin Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

E. L. Johnson, counsel for Hughes estimated that he would call from fifteen to twenty witnesses for the defendant in an attempt to disprove charges against him filed by D. E. Crow, superintendent of the infirmary alleging "neglect of duty, due to infirmities of old age."

Defense witnesses will consist of several inmates of the infirmary but mainly of farmers located near the infirmary and acquainted with Hughes intimately enough to give testimony concerning his farming ability.

Prosecuting Attorney J. Carl Marshall declared Monday that he expects to call less than ten witnesses including Mr. and Mrs. Crow and several inmates and employees of the infirmary.

Hughes recently obtained a restraining order in Common Pleas Court halting Crow from attempting to remove him until formal charges had been filed with the civil service commission, as he was appointed under civil service.

Charges were then filed asking for his removal on the grounds of "his advanced age his physical disability and neglect of duty." Hughes filed an appeal with the commission from his suspension and asked the commission to disapprove the order of removal.

In his injunction suit Hughes alleged Crow attempted to remove him purely for revengeful reasons growing out of testimony delivered by him against Crow at the recent hearing before the state commission in which the old board of county commissioners made an attempt to remove Crow from his position. The superintendent was ultimately absolved.

IMPROVED CONDITIONS ABROAD

THAT there has been great improvement in conditions in Europe there can be but little doubt in the minds of even those who are compelled to depend upon news reports and what investigators have to say upon their return from abroad.

This is partly the result of the operation of the Dawes plan but to a great extent to the cumulative result of the slow struggle back toward normal peace-time life which has been in progress ever since the Armistice. The stabilization of the German currency, the return of Swedish, Dutch and Swiss currencies to par with the dollar, the reestablishment of the gold standard in Sweden and evidences of increased savings in some countries are indeed striking measures of the betterment which has taken place.

Improvement outside of Europe has also been great. Australia is enjoying a boom as the result of a high price for a large wool clip and anticipation of a good price for a large wheat crop. Argentina has also profited greatly by advances in wool and the prospects are for an average wheat crop. Despite political unrest, business is reported better in India, chiefly as a result of good crops. In Canada, the high price of wheat has been a partial offset to a poor crop. Practically all countries, except Russia and China, have shared in the gains made.

All will agree that in the long run the United States will profit from a resumption of normal economic life in Europe. Demand for raw materials, such as cotton and copper, is now increasing and there may be some increase in demand for American food products. However, if the Dawes plan is to succeed, Germany must pay reparations by means of the export of manufactured goods. If other countries of Europe are to enjoy genuine prosperity, they, too, must expand their exports of manufactures. The economic existence of Western Europe depends on an increase in these exports.

OUR MISCONCEIVED IDEA

IN A recent address former Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall contrasted conditions in Europe with those prevailing in this country. "The English," he said, "do not make laws until they know that the people want them. I would like to repeal all of our Federal and State laws and re-enact the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule."

Mr. Marshall makes a rather extravagant statement but one not without interest and if his suggestion were to be carried out the resulting situation might not be wholly illogical.

Let us suppose that existing laws were repealed and the Golden Rule enacted as the organic law. From this we should have to proceed in cases of its violation to its interpretation by court decisions. That would be neither more nor less than the development of a common law system as long prevailing in England and still prevailing to an extent in the New England states of this country. Practice under the common law very largely dispenses with statutes, and it is no ideal dream to suppose that many, if not most statutes, could be dispensed with, resulting in a better administration of justice than now obtains in this country. A multitude of decisions bearing upon the applicability of the Golden Rule to numerous cases would in the course of time constitute a guide book to justice and orderly legal processes. This would merely duplicate the history of the common law, from the days of Magna Charta to the present time.

We do not expect to see the Golden Rule enacted as a substitute for existing American law, organic or statutory, but this is not because it might not be to our national advantage. Our lack of faith is rather due to the persistence of law-making in the United States and the prevalent notion that the more laws we have the better off we are.

THE OLD MAN'S CONFESSION

He was indeed a sad old man
Who bared his heart to me;
"I had high dreams when I began
Of what I meant to be,
But I was beaten from my plan
By little hurts," said he.

"I never entered any game,
But what I feared a blow,
The victory I longed to claim
But dreaded failure so;
I would not pay the price for fame
I wished so much to know.

"I could not wholly bring my mind
To work and never stop,
To put my pleasures all behind;
My spirits seemed to drop,
And try some easier way to find
To reach the mountain top.

"I winched beneath a little pain,
Rebelling at fancied wrong;
Selfishly magnified the strain
And made the day seem long,
I hoped by fortune to attain

The glories of the strong.

"And now you find me sitting here
A broken man and sad
A victim of his foolish fear.
One neither good nor bad,
Who flung away from year to year
Each golden chance he had.

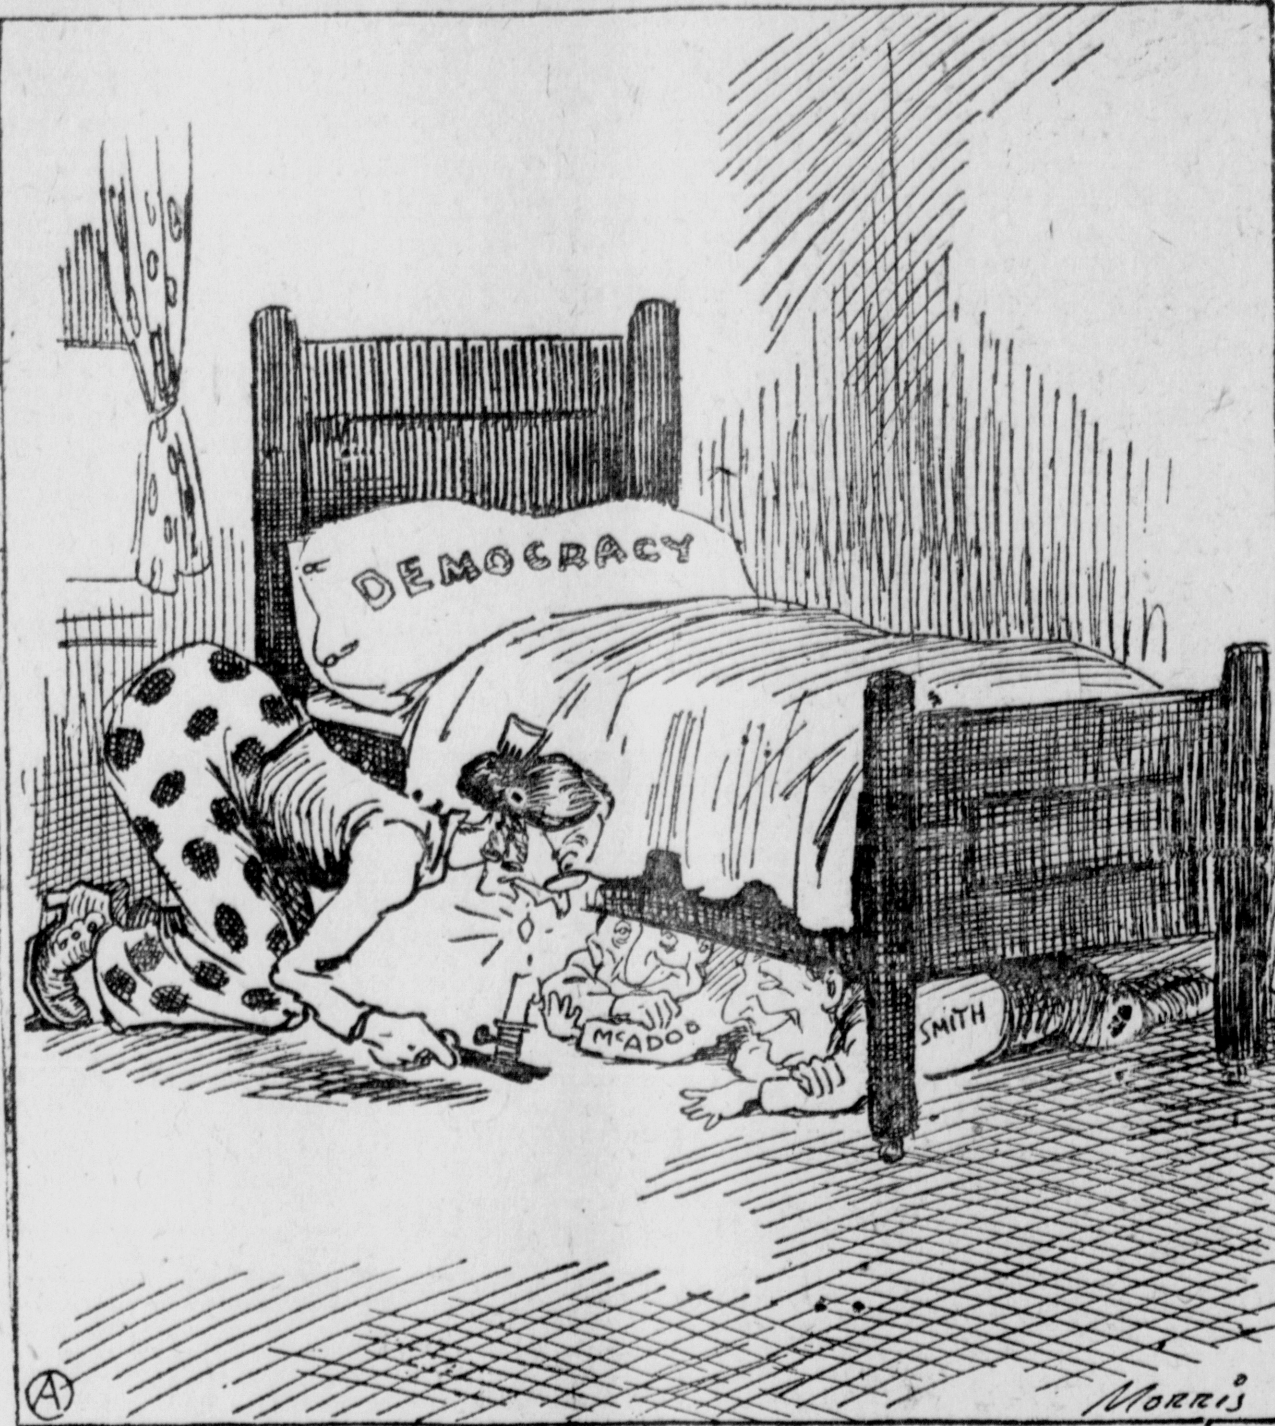

"I could have borne the pain, I know,
Too late today I see,
I could have stood to every blow
For all I wished to be;
I could have reached my goal, but
Oh,

There was no pluck in me!"

SCHOOL MERGER

Columbus, March 2—Merger of the Methodist Episcopal summer school for town and country pastors, heretofore conducted annually at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, with the inter-denominational school maintained by the Ohio Council of Churches, in cooperation with the college agriculture, Ohio State University here, will become effective at the next summer school, June 1, to July 2, it has been announced.

"AL, AND WILLIAM, COME OUT! I WANT TO SEE IF THERE IS A LEADER UNDER THERE."

1905-Twenty Years Ago-1925

No merger of the Reformed and First Presbyterian Churches will be made it was decided at a meeting of the congregation of the Reformed Church last night.

A call has been issued for a special meeting of the city council to be held on Thursday night at which time on consideration will be given the question of granting a franchise to a company for supplying the Xenia citizens with natural gas. Mr. Otto Hornick has again come into possession of the National billiard hall which Mr. Ed. Davidson has been conducting, and is now in charge of it. The County Commissioners are again considering the proposition to macadamize the Jamestown Pike.

well greased and floured baking powder can, filling the mould only three-fourths full (use two cans if necessary). Put on tightfitting cover and weight down the can in boiling water which reaches to its lid, letting this water continue to boil around it for three hours. Serve with an ordinary hard sauce. (Note: If you prefer to use one cup of stoned and chopped dates rather than the cupful of raisins or figs, omit the spices, but add one fourth cup of chopped, candied orange peel.)

Beef-Bean Casserole: Soak one pint of dried lima beans over night and in the morning drain, cover with fresh boiling water, add a pinch of baking soda, and boil 15 minutes. Now again drain the beans and set them aside to add later to the casserole. Brown one pound of stew beef (either from the round or chuck) cut in cubes, in two tablespoons of baconfat or beef drippings with two large sliced onions. When the meat pieces are seared on all sides, and the onions a light brown, begin to fill your casserole as follows: Put in a layer of the meat cubes, then a layer of the parboiled beans, followed by a layer of canned tomatoes; season all generously with salt and pepper and repeat these layers till the meat and beans are used (and about two cups of the more solid parts of the canned tomatoes). Sprinkle two tablespoons of flour over all, and add one cup of the liquid from the tomato-can. Bake for two and one-half hours in a slow oven, adding a little boiling water from time to time if it becomes very dry. Serve from the same dish.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Power in the Blood!

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S. S. S. are really amazing!

MAN'S GLORY is his strength—yet how few there are who are really as strong as they should be. The blood thins, gets weaker, blood cells wear out—general weakness and a gradual break-down of the system results.

We know there is one thing that puts power in the blood, and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! We know that as blood cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! But have you ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought of it. So-called skin eruptions—pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema all pack up and go when the tide of blood cells begins to roll in. Blood cells are the fighting giants of Nature. S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood cell builders, blood cleansers and body builders known to us mortals. Here is your opportunity! S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs rheumatism, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down.

Start taking S.S.S. today and get back that power in your blood!

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

PRIDE

I like proud people. Not snobbish people, but those who are proud of their heritage and their chance.

A man wouldn't be much of a man who didn't have pride. Who wasn't proud of his gifts, be they great or small, and who wasn't proud to assert himself.

I like to see the boy who is proud of his personal appearance. It indicates that he is going to be proud of the things he does and of the things he thinks.

The other day I passed through a tiny town—perhaps but a few hundred souls in the community. But right near the railroad station, over a door that looked as though it was not any too long for this world, was a great sign, almost as big as the town, and this is what it said: "Pressing Club!"

Proud people lived in that town anyway. I said to myself that is looked as though there was quite some determination in that town—panties pressed or bust! And I will warrant that many a king of finissee or something else comes out of that town. People with pride about them are not too prone to hurt the feelings of others. They have too much in-

And, after all, intelligence wins out in the end. The intelligent man never picks a fight with a bully. People are just beginning to understand President Wilson's famous phrase: "Too proud to fight." Wilson meant that a great people could be too right to lower themselves in a brawl.

The man who is personally proud takes pride in his home and in his city. He helps to make the world a better place in which to live.

But this pride must be a character pride, not that selfish pride that the Bible says always goes before destruction.

Another number by the quartette will be "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Sven V. Knudson, former inspector of state schools in Denmark, will give a talk on "From the University of Copenhagen to Antioch College."

"Old Black Joe" will be sung as a tenor solo and by a quartette and Mrs. Carl W. Miller will sing a soprano solo, "One Fleeting Hour." The quartette will sing "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

Mrs. E. D. Everdell, associate professor of education, Antioch College, will give a talk, "Antioch Academy: Why A Progressive School?" The program will close with a tenor solo by Frank Fritch and a number by the quartette, "The Old Rugged Cross."

Sporttime Stories BROADCAST BY STATION WONES

Ohio State's win over the lowly Chicago Maroons Saturday night at Columbus marked its seventh consecutive conference win of the season. State had little difficulty in winning out, the final score being 43 to 25. The Olsen-coached five is still at the top of the heap with nine wins and one loss for a 900 per centage. Illinois is Ohio's closest competitor being about two or three games behind. State has but two more games, these being with Indiana next Saturday on the latter team's floor and the following week with Wisconsin at Columbus. The Buckeyes should win both of these games although Indiana will no doubt give them a hard battle. Indiana is in third place while Wisconsin is at the bottom of the heap with but one victory out of eight games.

Manager Hendricks led his squad of Redlegs southward Saturday morning for spring training. Every player on the team is signed up except Hugh Critz. He has not yet come to terms as he rejected the club's contract and is outside the fold. Critz joined the Cincinnati nine last June coming from St. Paul of the A. A. loop. He played good ball and hits among the best. It is thought that he will quit balling and sign up in a day or so.

Central High School basketball team finished a successful court season last Friday when it defeated Troy High. This marked the locals' ninth win of the season while but three defeats were chalked up against them during the season. Springfield, Urbana and Middletown being the teams to defeat the Big Blue. The locals scored 315 points to their opponents 267 in the dozen games played, outscoring the opposition by forty-eight points. "Pino" Perrine, captain and guard of Central, was high man with forty-six field goals and sixteen fouls giving him a total of 108 points. Rutan was next with 88 points to his credit. These two lads were the big cogs in Central's offense as they scored over half of the team's points. It is hoped that they will keep up their good playing in the tourney at Dayton this week and come through. The writer believes they can beat the U. of D. Preps although they won't have a walk away. In the event they win they will probably meet Middletown, which team beat them once this season. Last season in the tourney the locals beat Norwood of Cincinnati in the first round only to lose in the next to Eaton, a weak team. All the players on this season's team with the exception of Holton have played in a tournament before so they are accustomed to tourney style and should go good.

MAMIE SMITH REVUE PEASES AUDIENCE

Mamie Smith and her syncopated revue one of the peepiest shows to visit Xenia for some time, entertained a good sized audience at the Opera House Saturday night.

Mamie, herself in former years, practically the whole show, only appeared on two occasions for songs, once in each act, but her jazzy songs pleased, as is always the case. The one real feature of the show was the orchestra, which played all of the latest jazz, in such a way as to bring repeated applause from the hearers.

Spectators were treated to something new and different in Mamie's revue this year. The comedians were versatile while the dancing of both the specialists and the chorus was excellent.

PROTEST SENT TO CHINA BY STATE

Pekin, March 2.—The United States has sent a strong protest to China for the infringement of American Sovereignty when the American river steamer Chichewen was seized by Chinese authorities in the upper Yangtze recently. It was learned at the American legation here today.

The captain and passengers aboard the Chichewen were arrested and refused permission to leave the ship for several days, according to the protest.

EARTHQUAKE MUST HAVE MISSED XENIA AND GREENE COUNTY

If there was an earthquake Saturday night, and seismograph operators all over the United States state emphatically that there was, Xenians let it get completely away from them.

The disturbance was said to be general over the United States and larger cities reported high buildings rocked, people became excited and police stations were deluged with questions. Scientists report a distinct change in the earth's crust as a result of the quake.

But all of these things must have happened somewhere else. If Mother Earth staged a tremor for the edification of scientists and the alarm of the laymen, she completely forgot about Xenia.

Police say a call from the H. H. Conklin residence, West Second Street, that a burglar was attempting an entrance, may have been caused by the quake rattling windows but they admitted that is a far-fetched theory.

Citizens of Dayton say they felt the tremor and a watchman in one building rushed into a police station with a report that a safe had been blown. A colored watchman, dozing in a chair on the thirteenth floor of one Dayton building said he was frightened when the building shook and his chair was disturbed. A physician on an upper floor in the medical building reported instruments dislodged and a door slammed.

Either because Xenia does not have a skyscraper high enough to feel the effects of the tremor or the quake missed this city altogether, no one here noticed the shock. Although there are no instruments kept at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Professor A. C. Swinnerton, geologist, believes the quake was not noticeable in Greene County.

As there was no evidence of the tremor in Springfield either, Professor Swinnerton believes the upheaval noticed in Dayton might have been the result of a strong imagination, as it unlikely that the quake would be felt in Dayton and not noticeable in Springfield and Xenia.

There is no geologist on the faculty of Wilberforce University and Professor Frazer, geologist at Cedarville College, could not be reached Monday.

The nearest seismograph, the instrument which detects quakes, is located at John Carroll University, Cleveland.

STYLE SHOW TO BE PRESENTED AT JOBE BROS STORE HERE

Whether athletics, motoring, Miking or politics are responsible, statistics prove that the modern woman is larger and physically more attractive than her sister of other generations—and that she comes closer to the Venus de Milo perfection than any other type.

And now, hearing out this fact, comes a fashion style show devoted entirely to the larger woman, which will be held at Jobe Brothers Company, Friday. Living models, carefully trained stylists, will show the larger woman how wonderfully well she can look if she selects her clothes with discrimination and forethought.

This fashion revue has passed through the foremost cities of America and has been acclaimed everywhere for the beauty, smartness, good taste and becomingness of the creations presented. Small wonder, for these creations, Paris-inspired, were designed especially for the larger woman by New York's master designers in the art of dressing the woman of full figure as she should be dressed—proving that size has nothing to do with smartness and that skillfully slenderizing lines, pounds can appear to disappear.

That grace and dignity of figure, smartness and a more slender silhouette, may be easily achieved, is proved by this style show. If you want to know what's going to be worn this summer and how to wear it, don't miss the showings at 10:30 a.m., and 2:30 p.m.

I. B. EDMONSON DIES SUDDENLY SATURDAY

Isaac B. Edmonson, 55, colored, engineer at the Springfield Dairy Products Company, Hill Street, suffered an attack of heart disease while at his work Saturday afternoon and died before a physician could reach him.

Mr. Edmonson had been employed at the Products Company for the past three years. He was engineer at site O. S. and S. O. Home, this city for twenty-one years and left that position four years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Minnie Edmonson, and one daughter, Mrs. Serena Wells, of Boston, Mass. Funeral services will be held at the home, 115 Home Avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, with interment in Cherry Grove Cemetery.

Friends may call at the home after 6 o'clock, Monday evening.

SAYS HE WATCHED HER

Thomas W. Kover, R. R. 2, Osborn, was sued for divorce by Mrs. Marie Kover, 1500 Springfield Street, Dayton, in Dayton Saturday. The wife charged Kover with loafing near her place of work, "watching every move she made" and causing her to lose her position.

They were married in Xenia, the petition alleges, September 14, 1920 and have one child.

BILLIARD TOURNEY IN SEMI-FINALS

Chicago, March 2.—The international 18.2 ball line billiard tournament went into its semi-final stages today with Willie Hoppe, champ, and Jake Schaefer, his most formidable opponent, playing their last matches before, in all probability, they will clash tomorrow.

Schaefer, who so far has furnished the sensations of the tournament will meet H. Suzuki, Jap star, this afternoon, and Hoppe will take on Edouard Horemans, Belgium, tonight.

If both Schaefer and Hoppe win today, Hoppe must defeat Schaefer tomorrow to tie him for the championship and win the playoff to retain his title.

On paper today Schaefer had the best championship possibilities. His grand average for the tournament was 92.40 and his high run the world's record 400 which he rolled off in his match with Erich Hagenlacher. Hoppe's grand average was 81.40 and his high run 187, next to the lowest of any player in the tourney. Horemans has a grand average of 40.40 and a high run of 249.

PARK PLAN WILL BE GIVEN IMPETUS AT MEETING TUESDAY

Plans of the Recreation Association for a city park in the Dodds Addition on North Detroit Street, will be furthered at a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs at the Goody Shoppe, Tuesday night when W. G. Robinson, Jackson, Mich., district representative of the National Recreation Association, will deliver a talk on "Playground Recreation and Park Thoughts."

The association hopes to set a day for a city-wide drive for funds soon after the meeting to equip the park site with a lagoon, gravel walks, rustic bridges, a tennis court, plant trees and purchase a certain amount of playground equipment.

Approximately $10,000 is needed to realize the park dream, according to T. H. Zell, president of the association, and unless that amount is obtained as a result of the drive, park plans may have to be discontinued.

Negotiations for the site can not be made by P. H. Flynn, local shoe manufacturer, who recently donated ten acres of land for the site, unless sufficient funds can be guaranteed to beautify the park, it is said.

Landscape artists who recently viewed the location, expressed enthusiasm over the prospects of a city park, and declared the proposed site was ideal.

A one year program has been arranged in which it is expected to decorate the land in shrubbery, plant a number of trees, build a lagoon, and install bridges and walks.

ACCEPTS CALL
Elyria, March 2.—Rev. Charles F. Wiseman, Canton, superintendent of the Canton, district, Ohio Anti-Saloon League, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Second Congregational Church here, effective March 1. He will immediately stage a $100,000 building campaign.

WOMAN IS HELD FOR CRUELTY TO PARENTS

Piqua, March 2.—Emma Sinks, 49 is facing a charge of cruelty to her parents after officials discovered she had forced her aged parents, Alex Sinks, 77 and his wife, Louisa, 74 to live in a weather-beaten shack on their farm, near West Milton.

The aged couple was refused admittance to the home of the daughter, who said she wanted to live by herself. She is also charged with cruelty to animals, which have been starving on the sixty-acre tract.

"Not Possible To Classify" "Not Possible To Classify"

Well, a good woman from Xenia, R. F. D. takes her trusty pen in hand and writes me a few lines of greeting something like this:

THEY DO THE WORK

When e're I want to advertise
And let the people know
That I have got a cow for sale
I'll wisely spend my dough.

When I have anything for sale
Or anything to get,
I let all of Greene County know
Through an ad in The Gazette.

And soon the people come to see
Who've read my printed word,
I sell not only just a cow,
But sell the whole darn herd.

After examining a turtle sent us by a Jamestown farmer we are at a loss to know just what our distinguished city editor, Mr. Higgins, means when he refers to an auto turning turtle.

DON'T LIKE THEM

The early bird may get the worm.
But I will make no haste;
Let others go and get the worm.
They do not suit my taste.

OLD ONE

Charming Jill ran up a bill
For quarts of toilet water,
With credit down
She skipped the town
And soon the sheriff caught her.

This page is getting results for dozens of farmers. Many Greene county farmers are using it. Farmers may phone their ads to 111.

YESTERDAY'S JUNIOR PUZZLE ANSWER

LAY EVANGELISM TO BE SUBJECT OF TALK AT REFORMED CHURCH

The Rev. R. E. Stewart, of Attica, N. Y., will give an address on "Lay Evangelism" at the First Reformed Church, following the covered dish supper to be given by the women of the church, in the parlors, Tuesday evening, March 3, at 6 o'clock.

The social meeting and address will begin a preparatory campaign of seven weeks, leading up to the coming of the Rev. and Mrs. Stewart, April 19 to 25, to conduct a series of meetings in the church.

The Rev. Mr. Stewart will be accompanied by O. S. Ashurst of Attica, an elder in the First Baptist Church, that city, of which the Rev. Mr. Stewart is pastor. He will give the laymen's views in a short talk.

The place of the layman in the church will be given special emphasis in the Rev. Mr. Stewart's address. Every member of the church is expected to cancel all other social engagements and come to this service.

Each family is asked to bring sandwiches and a covered dish.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

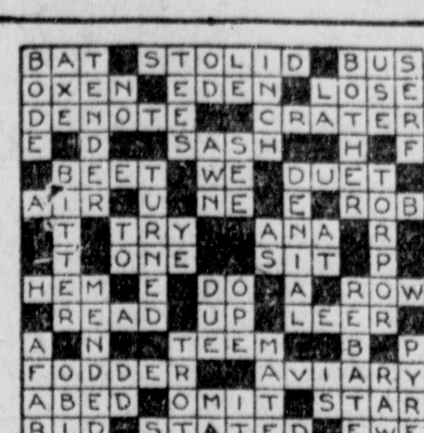

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmothers made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyer's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyer's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides, beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Here's Yesterday's Puzzle Solution

COUNTRY HOME IS DESTROYED BY FIRE NEAR NEW JASPER

Fire from unknown origin, totally destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Shirk, south of New Jasper, Sunday morning about 8 o'clock.

The flames were discovered on the second floor of the Shirk home and spread so rapidly that the family had only time to save the household goods and escape.

The fire quickly consumed the entire building, a two-story frame structure and neighbors fought the flames to prevent their spreading to other nearby outbuildings.

The loss of the house, estimated at $2,500, is partly covered by insurance, according to Mr. Shirk. The Shirk home was in the country, too far from town or village, where fire-fighting apparatus could be obtained. Neighbors formed bucket brigades and attempted to save the building.

Kansas City Doctor Invents New Truss

A new discovery which experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well known Hernia specialist, Dr. Andrews, 7878 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and holds a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double rupture, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of The Gazette and Republican who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today. EX-KAISER'S BRIDE IS TIRED OF DOORN

Doorn, March 2—Princess Hermine, the ex-Kaiser Wilhelm's second wife, is apparently tiring of her idle existence at Doorn, and Wilhelm is doing his best to please her, it is reported.

With this object in view, he recently took her on an expedition to view the former imperial crown jewels, which have reposited in a Dutch bank since the war.

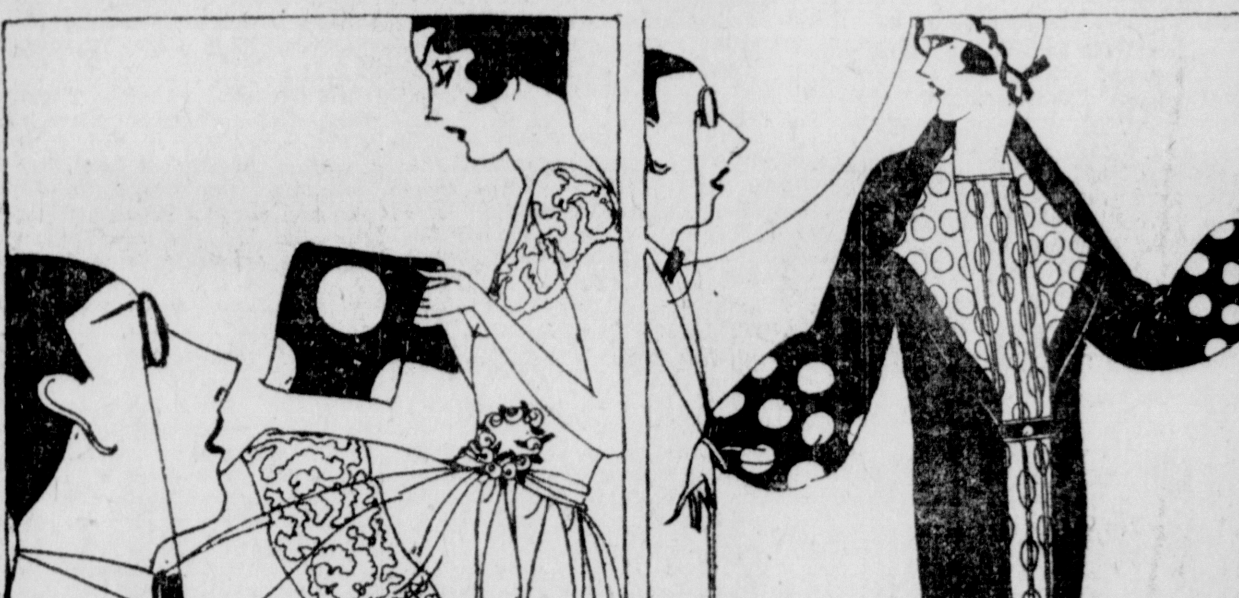

EVEN ROB JAIL

Officials are following clues to a robbery of the bank at Ridge, near Urbana, operated by the Ridgeview Banking Company, Thursday morning. The audits first robbed the village all of a mattress and comfort used to deaden the sound of their explosions at the bank.

About $1,200 in currency and bonds were taken from the huge safe. Notes and bonds were damaged by an acetylene torch used by the robbers. The loss is covered by insurance.

MODISH MITZI—New Fashions For The Old Polka Dot

By Jay V. Jay

The Goofer is plainly mystified. "Well what do you think it looks like?" questions Mitzi. "Sort of a moon, isn't it?" romantically replies her ardent admirer. "No. Polka dots. It looks as though they were going to be good this season. Big ones, little ones and all sort of colors too," Mitzi explains.

And here is the Goofer trying to tell all he knows about polka dots, for at last he has recognized them. Polly is astounded to think that her crossbar silk with the polka dot border has called forth so much admiration. Mitzi is pleased to know that her lesson on advanced styles has been so well learned.

Adelaide has come on the scene with a dress of a most unusual polka dot design. The Goofer is delighting in the knowledge that he can now recognize polka dots when he sees them. They do look as though they were forever changing their spots. But that is because the newest ones won't be old-fashioned and insist on a design of their own.

QUEEN CROWNED AT CLOSING NIGHT OF EAGLES' FUN FEST

The Indoor Circus and Fun Fest held under auspices of the Xenia Aerie of Eagles at its new lodge, came to a triumphant close Saturday night when the largest crowd of the week was on hand to see the winner of the popularity contest crowned queen of the circus.

Miss Alma Ammer, with a grand total of 24,670 votes, was an easy winner, and was given a diamond ring. Miss Selma Goodman won the second prize of a diamond ring with a total of 16,478 votes.

The four-tube radio set was won by James Gales, colored, 827 East Market Street.

The circus was well patronized each night of the week, and a nice netting was placed in the building fund, according to the circus committee.

The committee wishes to extend a vote of appreciation to the public for the fine way in which the performances were attended despite the inclemency of the weather and declared the co-operation shown exceeded expectations.

BRINGING UP FATHER

One Wife on Approval by VIOLET DARE

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CYNTHIA LELAND had a misunderstanding with her husband, Jim Leland, due to his mother's interference in their affairs. Jim goes to Honolulu, taking his mother with him. Cynthia accepts the attentions of NOEL GARDNER, and through him buys some stock which Madame Leland has thought worthless, for the purchase of which she had held Cynthia responsible. Cynthia makes several friends outside the set in which her sister-in-law, LOUELLA and her husband, Stanley, move. Among them is CECILE MALCOLM, who openly avows her affection for Noel.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXVII—ADVICE FROM LOUELLA

THE next morning was beautiful, spring-like. Cynthia rose at ten, breakfasted lazily, and curled up on a chaise longue beside an open window, with the morning paper in her hand. She was reading an account of the charity ball of the night before, and smiling over the description of her own costume, when her sister-in-law was announced.

VIOLET DARE

Quite characteristically, Louella came straight to the point. "Cynthia, you've simply got to mend your ways," she declared, as she dropped into a chair. "I've spoken to you before, but it hasn't done any good. Now I shall write to Jim if you don't behave yourself. Why, the way you acted last night with Noel Gardner was disgusting. Cynthia sat up very straight, her cheeks blazing.

"It was not!" she cried. "I danced with him a lot, but that was the only thing I did that you could possibly criticize, and as he was just about the only man there who stayed sober all evening, certainly nobody could find anything wrong about that."

"You shouldn't have gone to the party with him in the first place," announced Louella, taking another point of attack. "You should have gone with Stanley and me, or stayed at home."

"You and Stanley didn't ask me to go with you," retorted Cynthia. "And Noel Gardner was perfectly gentlemanly. I couldn't have been better off with my own husband."

"Oh, his actions may have been all right, but think of what people are saying! You know his history—that his wife left him because he went around so much with Cecile Malcolm after she divorced her husband."

"She left him because her people interfered and broke up her marriage," answered Cynthia, and Louella winced before the expression in the girl's eyes. "You know that as well as I do."

"Well, you're just inviting criticism, living here in his apartment and going around with him all the time. I've tried my best to warn you—remember that."

After she had gone Cynthia lay quite still, wondering what Louella meant. What cause would she have to remember that Louella had warned her?

"She acts as if I'd done something perfectly terrible," reflected Cynthia. "How could a man so broad-minded as Jim come from such a narrow-minded family?"

And yet, after all, had Jim been so very broad-minded? Cynthia tried to defend him to herself. Of course, he'd gone off to Honolulu with his mother instead of taking her, and he had acted strangely—but then, he was very fond of his mother, and perhaps he couldn't be blamed for letting her manage him. She did not want to admit what was so evident, that Jim's affection must have waned.

She was still curled up on the chaise longue when Cecile Malcolm strode breezily into the room.

"Hello—what a luxurious thing you are. My dear, will you forgive me for being so nasty the other night when I saw you at dinner? Make allowances—remember that I'm crazy about Noel, too. And to see you with him, when he's neglected me so—"

"Don't say 'too'—I'm not in love with him," protested Cynthia. "We're just good friends."

Cecile chuckled as she rummaged through her pockets for a cigarette. "Yes, I've heard that story before. Let me tell you that no woman can be 'just good friends' with Noel Gardner when she goes around with him as much as you do. And if you think he isn't in love with you, you're not half as sensible as I thought you were. Anyone could tell by the way he looks at you—"

"Oh, Cecile, please! Just because you care for Noel yourself, you misjudge both him and me. I tell you we're just friends. Now be sensible."

"Oh, Cecile, please! Just because you care for Noel yourself, you misjudge both him and me. I tell you we're just friends. Now be sensible."

A. J. RICHARDSON CALLED BY DEATH

After an illness of several years duration, Andrew J. Richardson, died at the home of his son, Homer Richardson, in Paintersville, Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock, on the sixty-ninth anniversary of his birth. Death was the result of locomotor ataxia, from which he had been an invalid for several years.

Mr. Richardson is survived by two sons, Homer of Paintersville, and Sherman Richardson of Jamestown. One brother, Noah Richardson of Madison County, also survives.

Mr. Richardson was a resident of Greene County all of his life, and made his home for the last four years with his son, Homer Richardson in Paintersville. He was a member of I. O. O. F. Lodge No. 52, of Xenia.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Methodist Protestant Church in Paintersville, with burial in Jamestown Cemetery.

DAYTON PASTOR TO SPEAK AT CHURCH HERE

The Rev. Joseph Graham of Sacred Heart Church, Dayton, will deliver the Lenten sermon at the service at St. Brigid's Catholic Church Tuesday evening, it was announced Sunday by the Rev. D. E. Powers, pastor.

the hand that rocked the cradle is now rowing the industrial boat

More than eight and three-quarters millions of women are now "gainfully employed." (1924 figures).

The above figures mean that 21.1 percent of all females in the continental United States over the age of ten are now making or partially making their own living. About two and a quarter million are working in manufacturing occupations.

Domestic personal service still leads in the number and percentage of women to whom it gives employment: 2,186,924 women are thus "gainfully employed." This figure is a decreasing one, however, as 2,531,221 women were employed as domestic personal servants in 1910.

More than a million women are in professional service—almost as great a numerical figure as there are men in professional service—and a much greater percentage.

Over 61,000 women hold positions as proprietors, officials, firm members or responsible officers in corporations. It can truly be said that the hand which rocked the cradle is now doing more than its bit to row the industrial boat.

POLICE COURT

TWO ARE FINED

William Beyer, Collier Street, was fined $10 and costs by Judge E. D. Smith when he pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk when arraigned in Police Court Monday morning. He was arrested Saturday afternoon by Patrolmen Charles Simms and Charles Thompson.

George Spencer, Jamestown Pike, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Smith on the same charge when he pleaded guilty. Spencer walked into Police Headquarters Sunday afternoon in an intoxicated condition and was locked up, Police Chief M. E. Graham making the arrest.

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts to Get rid of Toxic Acid

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first signs of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

Another Nurse Praises Tanlac

"As a nurse I have seen many marvelous results from Tanlac. For anemia, nervousness, stomach trouble and building up the system after operations I consider Tanlac great!" Mrs. K. M. Lowe, Walnut Park, Cal.

NURSE Lowe's statement merely backs up what over one hundred thousand grateful Tanlac users have said about this great natural tonic and builder. Our files are packed with such testimony.

If your system is run down, if you can't seem to eat or sleep, have lost weight or suffer from trying pain, why not let Tanlac start to bring you back to vigorous strength and health.

No long, wretched wait to get results! Tanlac starts right in to build you up. It cleans the blood, revitalizes digestive organs, fixes up the liver and makes you feel like a new person.
